GERMANY ACCEPTS TREATY UNCONDITIONALLY

WORKERS THREW DOWN TOOLS WHEN STRIKE ORDER WENT FORTH

Five Thousand Men Affected Here by Strike Called in Sympathy With Winnipeg; Shipbuilding Industry Tied up by Walk-out This Forenoon

In response to the mandate issued by the Metal Trades Council five thousand members of unions affiliated with that organization "downed tools" here at 10 o'clock this morning in sympathy with the Winnipeg strikers.

Promptly at the stroke of the hour the strike went into effect and industrial activity was temporarily brought to a halt.

The largest employment organization affected by the walk-out in Victoria is the Foundation Company of British Columbia, Ltd., which concern carries on its payroll 3,200 men of all crafts.

Firms Affected.

Other local concerns affected by the strike include the Cholberg Ship Company, the Harbor Marine Company, Ltd., Yarrows, Ltd., the Victoria Machinery Depot, Hutchison Bros & Co., Ltd., and various smaller engineering firms. Two hundred and fifty men employed by Yarrows, Ltd., of Esquimalt, are affected, and 180 employees of the Cholberg Ship Company, which concern is building three 1,500-ton schooners for Norwegian interests, quit work at the call of the unions.

The Harbor Marine Company makes the claim that practically all its employees, composed mostly of returned soldiers, remained on the job. This yard, however, employs only 140 men, the yard for the building of two 8,100-ton steel ships for the Dominion Government, being in course of construction.

About fifty men employed by the sub-contractors at the Harbor Marine yard dropped their tools, but some 130 employees of the company remained at their posts.

Foundation Plants Idle.

The employees of the Foundation Company left work as scheduled and for some time the Esquimalt and Nanaimo railway bridge was jammed with a moving mass of humanity bound citywards.

"We have decided to shut the yards down tight," said Edward E. Jenkins, assistant Northwest manager of the Foundation Company, as we are not desirous of antagonizing anyone and it would be impossible to carry on operations with half shifts."

Beyond this the Foundation manager, who quietly watched the men stream out of the yards, had nothing to say.

The men on the whole appeared to lack enthusiasm and an atmosphere of depression seemed to prevail as they quietly sauntered along. Knots of men gathered about the shipyard entrance and discussed the different phases leading up to the strike.

The strikers in many ways made it clear that they held no grievance against the company and regret was openly expressed that it had been necessary to declare a walkout.

As the Foundation employees, many of them carrying tool boxes and tools along, wended their way across the bridge, the employees of the Colberg Company and the Harbor Marine Company merged with them from the opposite direction.

There was a total absence of noise and no demonstrations.

It was remarked on all sides that it was the quietest walkout that had ever been witnessed here.

Yarrows men quit work shortly after the hour set for the strike. Some 250 men are affected at the Lang Cove plant, but the apprentices and some machinists and carpenters failed to leave as ordered by the unions.

Notice to Employees.

The management of Yarrows, Ltd., had a notice posted at the gates which reads as follows: "This yard will remain open for all those who wish to continue working. Are you going to benefit yourself by remaining away from work?"

The steamer Quadra is undergoing overhaul at Yarrows, but it is stated that owing to the strike the vessel

DEMAND RESIGNATION OF THE GOVERNMENT

The following resolution was passed unanimously by the mass meeting of labor men at the Royal Athletic Park yesterday:

"That we the workers of Victoria in mass meeting assembled do hereby call upon the Trades and Labor Congress to demand the resignation of the Federal Government in order that the people may have an opportunity to register their opinion of the war-time profiteering and class legislation which has disgraced its term of office. This meeting further registers its opinion that the chief cause of the present unrest is the high cost of all commodities, including clothing and vital food supplies, and that unless such profiteering is forthwith stopped it will bring lasting discredit to the glorious old flag which does and will stand for freedom and justice—the Union Jack."

MR. HANNA ORDERS CANORA TO RESUME

Premier's Wire Successful in Getting Action; Naval Crew May Man Craft

"Have wired our people at the coast to put the Canora in service at once, as the citizens of Victoria have undertaken to furnish a crew."

The foregoing telegram was received by Premier Oliver from D. B. Hanna, Chairman of the Board of the Canadian National Railways, this morning. It is the sequel to a conference held in the Premier's office a few days ago when the president, secretary and two members of the Victoria Board of Trade sought Mr. Oliver's influence in the matter.

Immediately following the discussion the Premier wired to Mr. Hanna pointing out that a serious congestion of freight here, owing to strike conditions, was causing a good deal of inconvenience, loss and alarm.

By reason of the seamen's strike the Canora, in common with other craft, was obliged to suspend operations, and since the strike was called she has been tied up at Port Mann. It is now presumed that naval ratings from Esquimalt will operate the ferry and thus relieve the present conditions of freight interchange between this Island and the mainland.

BROUGHT MUNITION WORKERS

Montreal, June 23.—The troopship Canada docked here this morning. She discharged Imperial soldiers and munition workers.

Crews of Warships Being Increased by British Admiralty

London, June 23.—The dreadnoughts Orion, Conqueror and Thunderer left Plymouth last night for Rosyth, Scotland, with special detachments of naval ratings bound for northern waters.

Allied Troops to Control Situation at Port of Danzig

Paris, June 23.—The Supreme Allied Military and Naval Council met at Versailles to-day to consider details concerning the replacement of the German and Polish troops at Danzig with Allied soldiers.

MOUNTED POLICE STATIONED IN WINNIPEG STREET AND ORDER PREVAILS IN CITY

Winnipeg, June 23.—Shortly before noon to-day the Royal Northwest Mounted Police stationed in Winnipeg, with motor machine units, paraded on Main Street, where they still are. Traffic, however, has not been suspended and no reason so far has been assigned for the reappearance of the troops. Everything appears quiet.

Winnipeg, June 23.—Mayor Charles F. Gray announced this morning that all meetings are forbidden as long as Riot Act is in force. This will be until normal conditions prevail, it is announced. As to the arrest of men who planned the parade, Mayor Gray said this was in the hands of the legal authorities.

A report, wholly unconfirmed, was current this morning that several of the men prominent in planning Saturday's parade had disappeared.

One man killed outright, scores injured, some seriously, and more than 100 arrested on indictable charges—this is the situation confronting Winnipeg to-day after Saturday's riots. The injured were reported to be "getting along nicely."

Mayor Gray's statement that the first shots were fired at the police from the crowd was corroborated by numerous observers, as well as by foot and mounted police.

It is feared that the rioting will have the effect of further prolonging the sympathetic strike, which seemed to be well on the road to a settlement Saturday. Employers, authorities and mediators have come out flat-footedly demanding that the strike be called off before any negotiations can be continued.

Those under arrest, including six women, will be tried before a special riot court this afternoon. Hugh Phillips, K.C., and A. J. Andrews, K.C., will appear for the crown. Counsel for the defence has not been named.

To Ontario.

Winnipeg, June 23. — Registered aliens in Winipeg who break their paroles and take part in forbidden meetings and commit any acts of a disorderly nature are being arrested and place in an internment camp in Ontario. So far more than twenty have been rounded up by Dominion and city police, and other arrests are likely to be made, it was officially announced last night. In two days last week thirteen were gathered in, a number that gives some idea of the active work that has been started by the authorities. All are charged with various offences against anemy alien regulations.

Normal on Sunday.

Winnipeg, June 23.—On Sunday afternoon the scene of Saturday's fatal riot was absolutely normal—just as dull and empty a picture as Main Street in Winnipeg presents on any Sunday in the year, except that it was even a little emptier because of the absence of street cars. Around the City Hall were the usual groups, neither more nor less. They discussed listlessly the events of Saturday.

There was no sign of the mailed fist, but though unseen, it still held in its grip the lawless element of the city. Not a uniformed soldier was in sight, nor even the special police, conspicuous among other civilians by their white armlet. Yet one could imagine that at a shrill whistle these empty streets would have been populated again by scarlet-tuniced horsemen, by marching columns in khaki from whose fixed bayonets the sun would glint, and by the armored cars of the motor machine gun units and the lorries of the field ambulance.

The perspective of thirty hours cleared up many confusions in Saturday's battle scene. Two facts stood out. The first is that the R. N. W. M. P. did not fire on the mob until

NEW WESTMINSTER STREET CARS RUN

Also Interurban Cars; Employees Voted to Return to Work

New Westminster, June 23.— The street cars in this city and the interurban cars connecting with Vancouver and suburban districts will resume service at 4 p.m. to-day. A ballot of the entire Street Railwaymen's Union supported its executive in this decision Sunday evening, and the Central Strike Committee has been notified that the street car strike is off.

The next largest body of men on strike here, the engineers, also voiced a desire to return to work at a meeting yesterday. The fact that the mills are operating with volunteer engineers has gone far to neutralize the effect of the engineers' strike. No decision was arrived at, but the engineers probably will return to work shortly.

The street car men took the stand that the Winnipeg authorities could not be condemned for their action during the Saturday riots since the parade of strike sympathizers had been attempted in direct defiance of an official proclamation.

The new Westminster Strike Committee will meet to-day to make final decision as to whether the strike in this city should be called off forthwith.

PTE. REA, VICTORIA, DIED WHILE CROSSING ATLANTIC TO CANADA

Portland, Maine, June 23.—With 568 wounded Canadian soldiers aboard, the transport Essequibo arrived here yesterday afternoon after an uneventful voyage from Liverpool. Paris, June 23.—It is officially announced that General Nudant, Marshal Foch's representative on the Allied Armistice Commission, has presented the German Armistice Commission with a request of the Allied and Associated Powers that Germany take immediate steps to stop the German advance into Esthonia. The immediate evacuation of Windau and Libau is requested and the hastening of the evacuation of territory formerly belonging to Russia is asked for.

Street Car Strike in Toronto; People Use Jitneys or Walk

Toronto, June 23.—While Toronto's thousands walked, jitneyed or cycled to work this morning, the Board of Control and other civic authorities met to endeavor to put on the streets again the trolly cars, which had been stalled in the car barns since the strike vote of the street railwaymen late on Saturday night. No attempt was made to run the cars

BOLSHEVIK CRAFT SUNK BY BRITISH

One Battleship Reported Torpedoed; Another Hoisted White Flag

London, June 23.—The Bolshevik battleship Andrei Pervoswanni is believed to have been sunk by a British torpedo near Kronstadt on Thursday, according to a Finnish naval dispatch quoted in a Helsingfors dispatch to The Daily Mail.

The telegram adds that the Bolshevik battleship Petropavlosk has hoisted the white flag.

The Russian battleship Andrei Pervoswanni was laid down in January, 1903 and completed in 1911. She was 460 feet in length, with a beam of 80 feet, her draught being 27 feet and her displacement 17,400 tons. Her speed when new was 18 knots and her armament consisted of four 12-inch guns, fourteen 8-inch guns and smaller weapons and three torpedo tubes.

The battlecruiser Petropavlovsk is one of the largest warcraft built by the Russians, being 590 feet in length and displacing 23,300 tons. She was laid down in 1909, her designed speed being 23 knots. Her armament consists of twelve 12-inch guns and smaller pieces and four torpedo tubes.

Slava Torpedoed.

Helsingfors, June 19.—(Delayed.)—British warships on Wednesday evening torpedoed the Bolshevik armored cruiser Slava, which sank immediately.

The only Russian warship bearing the name of Slava to be found in available lists was sunk by a German squadron on October 17, 1917, in the Gulf of Riga. It seems probable, however, that some other craft was given the name of Slava, which was entered in the Bolshevik Admiralty reports as a battleship.

A report received on Friday stated that the Russian cruiser Oleg had been sunk on Wednesday by a British submarine, but a dispatch from London on Saturday said it had been learned that the Bolshevik cruiser Oleg at last accounts was in sinking condition, and that the veessel had not been hit by a torpedo from a submarine, but had struck a Bolshevik mine.

Threatening Attitude of Hungarian Communist Troops May Cause Move

To Ruin.

Budapest, June 22.—Via London, June 23.—(Associated Press).—Minister of Social Protection Varga and other members of the National Soviet at a meeting of the Soviet yesterday expressed the opinion that the attempt to eliminate capital from the country had been leading Hungary to the brink of ruin.

PROTEST TO OTTAWA.

Regina, June 23.—Saskatchewan Synod, representing more than 115,000 Presbyterians, has wired Ottawa protesting against the action of the Canadian Senate in nullifying the prohibition legislation of the House of Commons.

INCREASE IN TAX RATE THIS YEAR

The city tax rate this year will probably be 1.75 mills on the dollar greater than the rate of 1918, according to an announcement which has been made by Mayor Porter. Last year the net rate for those who took advantage of the one-sixth discount was 25 mills. Should the city decide to tax improvements this year the tax rate will be entirely altered. The probable increase on the tax rate of one and three-quarter mills will be necessitated by the increase of the city's estimates, which were considerably agumented on account of the increased expenditure on schools.

TEUTONS WILL SIGN THE ALLIES' TREATY PROBABLY WEDNESDAY

Allied Powers Were Informed To-day German Government Will Sign Pact Unconditionally; Teutons Still Talk of "Peace of Violence"

Paris, June 23.—The German Government at Weimar has formally communicated its willingness to sign the peace treaty terms unconditionally, it was announced by the French Foreign Office this afternoon.

The day and hour for the formal signing of the treaty are uncertain. The signing possibly may take place Tuesday, but more likely Wednesday.

The Italian delegates at present in Paris have been authorized to sign the treaty on behalf of Italy. This announcement removed one question which it was feared might delay the signing.

The German note of acceptance, it is said, is couched in such language that it maintains the German position that the peace conditions are "a peace of violence."

Weimar, June 22.—Via London, June 23.—(Associated Press).— It has been officially announced here that Germany will sign the treaty of peace.

Von Haimhausen Out.

Weimar, June 22.—Via London, June 23.—(Associated Press).—Dr. Hamiel von Haimhausen, a member of the German peace delegation, who was asked to conduct the peace arrangements for the Germans at Versailles, has notified the Government he will not sign the Allies' terms.

German Assembly's Vote.

Berlin, June 22.—Via London, June 23.—(Associated Press)—The National Assembly this afternoon by a vote of 237 to 138 decided to sign the peace treaty. The Assembly also voted confidence in the new Government of Bauer, 236 to 89. Sixty-eight members abstained from voting.

On the question of signing the treaty, five members of the Assembly abstained from voting.

Before the vote of confidence was taken, Baeur, the new Premier, declared that the Government would sign the treaty, but without acknowledging the responsibility of the German people for the war, and without accepting the obligations contained in Articles 227 to 230 in the treaty, relating to the trial of the former Kaiser and the extradition of other German personages.

QUICKLY REJECTED GERMAN REQUEST

Allied Leaders Refused to Give Teutons Forty-eight Hours More

Paris, June 23.—(Associated Press.)—Germany to-day requested an additional forty-eight hours within which to make known its decision relative to the signing of the peace treaty without the reservations refused by the Allied Powers. The Council of Three flatly refused the request.

The request for additional time pleaded that the change in the government and the generally disturbed conditions made it difficult to complete the arrangements.

The communications from the Germans was received at 3 o'clock this mornings. At 9 o'clock Premier Clemenceau and President Wilson met with Premier Lloyd George at the latter's house for consideration of the note. The character of this communication was not disclosed, however, until some time later in the morning, when announcement was made that the German reguest had been rejected.

No Changes.

Paris, June 23.—The German note to which the Countil of Four replied Sunday by definitely rejecting any suggestions for an alteration in the treaty declared that the Germans regarded the terms of peace as impracticable and that their signature would be given under duress. Protests were made against the clauses concerning reparations, the forfeiture of the colonies and others.

Asserting that the terms could not be carried out and that the German Government could not be held responsible for what might occur, the note concluded by saying that the Germans would sign, with reservations relative to the turning over of those alleged to be guilty of crimes and also the ad-

BRITISH TROOPS AT SURREY CAMP IGNORED ORDERS; 400 OF THEM WERE ARRESTED

London, June 23.—The mutinous conduct of troops at Sutton Camp, Surrey, which had been growing for the last ten days, culminated on Saturday in the formation of a committee by the men and their refusal to salute or to obey orders.

On Sunday morning two battalions of troops were sent to the camp in light fighting trim and with a machine gun.

The troops arrested 400 men, among them the ringleaders, and dispatched 1,800 other men to camps at Dover and Canterbury.

The main grievance of the men was that they were being ordered to France.

GERMAN WAR VESSELS AT GERMAN PORTS REPORTED SUNK BY TEUTON SAILORS

Weimar, June 22.—Via London, June 23.—(Associated Press).—The German warships which were not surrendered to the Allies and which had been anchored at Kiel, Wilhelmshaven and other ports, have been sunk by the German sailors manning them, according to a report received here from a reliable authority.

A BOTANIST AT THE AGE OF SEVEN

Dale Parks, of San Jose, California, Is Called a Prodigy

San Jose, Cal., June 23.—California has a prodigy in seven-year-old Dale Parke, rated and recognized as a botanist in California. He specializes in mushrooms and other fungi. His work is represented in the New York and St. Louis Botanical Gardens, and the University of California's collections are the richer on account of him.

One of the boy's proudest possessions is a letter from a professor in the University of California acknowledging receipt of some rare specimens, commanding and encouraging him and predicting that he soon will become an expert as his father, H. E. Parks, of this city, a recognized authority, who is credited with the discovery of many new variety of mushrooms in California.

"This is the craterellus cornucopides, a non-edible mushroom," said Dale to an Associated Press correspondent to whom he was exhibiting his collection. "And this is the amanita, a poisonous mushroom. You will notice it has a death cup around the root. And this is the hypholoma, and this the edible puffball, and this the campestris, this the coprinus, this the clavaria and this the polyoporus, which grows on wood. The coprinus is edible."

"Hold on a minute," said the breathless correspondent, who was trying to make notes of the names which fell glibly from the lad's tongue. "Are you sure you're not making fun of me?"

The boy's mother, who had been listening to the conversation, smiled as Dale put down his microscope and specimen box, and walked into the next room. He returned with several ponderous volumes. Turning over the pages, the boy identified every one of the mushrooms he had mentioned.

Dale accompanies his father on all his trips afield. He has his own bag and trowel, and his eyes become "as big as saucers," his mother says, when he occasionally chances on a rare specimen.

A Hamilton citizen advertizes that he will be responsible, only for his own debts. A lot of us would like to be able to say even that much.

CALGARY WOMAN GAINS TWENTY-FIVE POUNDS, SHE SAYS

Before Taking Tanlac She Was So Weak She Could Hardly Walk a Block

"It certainly has paid—me well to stick to Tanlac, for it has really and truly made me feel like a new person," said Mrs. H. Weagant, wife of a well-known Canadian Pacific railroad man, residing at 1924 Eighth Avenue, East, Calgary, recently, in a statement which is both interesting and remarkable.

"For several years," Mrs. Weagant continued, "I had been in a badly run-down condition, and was extremely nervous. I also suffered from indigestion, and my food seemed to give me very little nourishment. In this weakened condition I fell an easy victim to Influenza, last fall, which left me much worse off than ever, and not until six months later, when I got Tanlac, was I able to find anything to help me. My nerves were so shattered that the least noise would wake me at night, and I would go to bed tired out and get up the same way in the mornings. I had no appetite and not nearly enough strength to do my work, and couldn't walk a block without feeling completely exhausted.

"After seeing from the papers that so many Calgary people were being benefited by Tanlac I concluded to try the medicine myself. For some time I couldn't see much improvement, and felt for a while that I was going to be disappointed, and thought of giving up the treatment. But, then I thought again that it must be good or so many people wouldn't be praising it. So I stuck to it and when I finished my fourth bottle I was improving rapidly. My appetite returned, and I lost all signs of nervousness and indigestion. I could rest well at night, get up in the mornings feeling refreshed and noticed myself getting much stronger. Well, after finishing my seventh bottle I was feeling so extraordinarily well that I weighed myself while down town one day, and was not surprised to find that I had actually gained twenty-five pounds in weight. I have found by experience that Tanlac is a wonderful medicine, and I don't hesitate to recommend it."

HIS GREAT IDEA

"No," said the rich girl, "I would always be afraid you had married me for my money."

"That difficulty could easily be removed," he replied.

"How?"

"Why, if you should give me your money first, there could be no possibility that I married you for it, and yet it would not be lost to us."

For a moment she seemed convinced. Then a shade of doubt again clouded her beautiful face.

"It won't do," she said. "In that case I would always be afraid I had married you for your money."—Boston Herald.

THOUGHT IT WAS A BOIL

Doctor Said Abscess

Mr. Gleason R. Young, Kingscroft, N. B., under date of February 9th, 1918, writes us as follows: "About five months ago, a lump came on my jawbone. I though it was a boil, and after it had been there quite a while it began to get larger. I went to a doctor and he said it was an abscess, and lanced it. He gave me a wash for it, so I went by his directions until it healed up, but it commenced coming again, and in about three weeks it broke itself. I thought it would get better, but it didn't. A neighbor advised me to get a bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters, so I sent and got a bottle, and by the time it was all gone, the abscess had disappeared, and now it is all better."

Burdock Blood Bitters will heal and dry up sores, ulcers, and abscesses, no matter how large or of how long standing. If you have never applied it to a cut, wound, sore or ulcer, just try it and see what soothing, healing, cleansing power it possesses. It takes out the itching, stinging and burning, and promotes the growth of healthy flesh. So, too, when taken internally, by its power of eliminating all impurities from the blood and making that vital fluid rich, red and pure, it cuts off the origin and source of the foul matter that goes to make boils, pimples, sores, ulcers, abscesses and the like, and at the same time the purified and enriched blood creates healthy tissue where there was formerly, perhaps, a sore full of pus.

KARACHI BENEFITS FROM WAR TRADE

Civil Engineer From Port of Indus Was in City Yesterday

Karachi, owing to being the port nearest to Mesopotamia, has expanded tremendously by the war. This is the statement of J. McKenzie Davidson, who arrived at the Empress Hotel on Saturday.

Mr. Davidson, who is a civil engineer of twenty-seven years standing, has now retired from the Indian civil service, and is on his way home to Scotland.

He told The Times that the stimulus of the war added greatly to the prosperity of the port. In addition to being the base for supplies for the Mesopotamian Expeditionary Force, large numbers of wounded and invalided men were nursed in Karachi, the new barracks alone being capable of accommodating several thousand men. Owing to arrangements being made in Mesopotamia, it was not found necessary during the last year of the war to send so many invalided men back to Bombay and Karachi as was formerly the case. However, Mr. Davidson states that the effect of so heavy a tax on the transportation facilities has led to permanent development work being done for the harbor.

Irrigation Wanted.

The hinterland of the Scinde has been hitherto rather neglected, Mr. Davidson points out, the country being somewhat arid away from the Indus valley. However, owing to the fact that a very extensive irrigation project is now planned which will entail a dam larger even than the Assuan on the Nile in Egypt the desert conditions will be obliterated. The work on this undertaking has been held up until the peace settlement.

Hunting Opportunities.

Mr. Davidson, while he has hunted in the Scinde, states that it does not compare as a hunting district with the wonderful jungles of Central India. He is in a position to judge about big game hunting, because he was out in British East Africa during the construction of the Uganda Railway, where the lions showed no respect for engineers and ate them up quite as cheerfully as mere native carriers. Of course he points out that the game in the Indus valley does not compare with that of the Uganda.

Mr. Davidson remarked that there was very little movement of coolie labor from that part of India overseas, and thus there was no occasion for the anxiety which has developed in other Indian ports.

He left India in March, crossed to San Francisco from Japan, and has been visiting the Yosemite valley and other show places of California. He left for the East yesterday.

MINING ENGINEER HAS UNUSUAL HOBBY

Man in Butte Makes Miniature Reproductions of Mine Works

Butte, Mont., June 23.—To have the "toys" which he started making as a means of diversion during his leisure hours come into demand in remote corners of the earth, and to have them figure in the courts in important litigation is the experience of F. A. Linforth, a geologist and mining engineer.

In a little engineering mining shop in a corner of his home Mr. Linforth, a graduate of the University of California, ten years ago began moulding, or folding, to be more exact, miniature models of mine plans and mining machinery out of various kinds of paper and cardboard. It became a hobby with him, and he became so proficient that he was able to reproduce on almost a "watch charm" scale the vast and complicated inner works of mining plants. He made models of the largest mines of Butte so precisely that miners could point out the various stopes or raises in which they worked.

An exploration company which is building a large smelter in Chile recently requested Mr. Linforth to make a papier mache relief map of the location of the proposed plant and to build on it the smelter. Without even having seen the ground, Mr. Linforth, by means of surveys sent him, made a reproduction of the site, hundreds of acres in extent, and built on it the miniature smelter on which the company since has actually begun construction work on its South American property. This model was made on a scale of 100 feet to the inch.

To New York.

Miniature duplications of mines have been ordered by mining men to be sent to New York and other large cities in order to interest financiers in proportion for which capital is sought. The model of a smelter found its way to the University of Santiago, Chile, with the result that a communication came from that school asking Mr. Linforth to reproduce for it models of certain mines and smelters of the United States. As a result South American mining students at this university have before them in their class-rooms, among other models, the Great Falls, Mont., smelter in detail with every piece of machinery in place, and the reproduction faithful to the minutest detail.

In the Montana federal court of law suit involving millions of dollars is at issue and Hr. Linforth's services have been sought to reproduce for examination in the court room small models of two of the largest mines in the Butte district. When the case comes to trial the court will follow the argument, which involves title to various veins, by having the points mentioned in the testimony pointed out.

"My hobby never becomes a business," said Mr. Linforth. "There is not enough mine construction to make it a commercial proposition, because in a few weeks I can reproduce the miniature of a plant costing millions of dollars."

Several of Linforth's associates work with him each evening in his little home factory, which is known in most of the technical universities of America and to the majority of the mining men of the country.

Women never critize the judgment of men who pay them compliments.

ROUMANIA SEEKS TO FOLLOW DOMINION

Balkan Kingdom to Which Canada Has Granted Credit

What is, in a few words, the economic strength of Roumania, the gallant little kingdom which was a staunch ally in the war, and to which Canada has now granted a credit of $25,000,000? Roumania before the war contained 600,000 square miles, with a total population practically equal to that of Canada. With the additions made by the peace treaty, Roumania will probably have from fifteen to eighteen million people. Mineral resources are important, though only partly worked. The principal are rock salt, lignite and copper. The Roumanian oil fields in 1910 gave 1,334,000 tons of exude. The private capital invested in home industries was about $100,000,000. Official statistics cover fifty-two principal industries.

Farm produce is an important part of the nation's wealth. In 1912 the acreage for the main cereals was: wheat, 5,100,000; barley, 1,230,000; maize, 5,130,000; oats, 934,000. There were 183,000 acres under cultivation as vineyards, with a production of 37,700,000 gallons of wine. The forests include roughly 7,000,000 acres of pine, oak, larch, maple, elm, willow and walnut trees.

Livestock consists of horses, 824,000; cattle, 2,660,000; sheep, 5,260,000; hogs, 1,000,000, besides goats, mules and asses. There is valuable fishing in the Danube and Black Sea. A great part of the fisheries is owned by the State. There are 2,167 miles of railways.

Nation's Commerce.

Roumanian commerce from 1896 to 1906 showed an increase of 50 per cent, andin 1911 with a total of $250,000,000 it was more than double the average for the years 1896—1900. The last returns of exports before the war showed a value of $26,000,000. The following figures show the proportion of trade done by various European countries with Roumania in 1911: Belgium, 23.12 per cent; Germany, 17.19 per cent; Austria, 15.85 per cent; United Kingdom, 11.82 per cent; France 6.68 per cent; Holland, 6.48 per cent; Turkey, 6.89 per cent; other countries, 12.06 per cent.

Roumanian exports went chiefly to the following countries: Belgium, 38 per cent; Holland, 11.12 per cent; Austria, 9 per cent; United Kingdom, 8.1 per cent; Italy, 7.16 per cent; France, 7.1 per cent.

The Canadian Trade Commission has on file other interesting data, the most recent compiled, of Roumanian trade. All the information received from the best sources in London and Paris indicates that Roumania is likely to be one of the most stable and prosperous of the countries of the Near East.

Devastation.

The devastation caused by the invasion of Austrians and Germans did, of course, immense damage, but reconstruction work is well under way, and it is hoped that with a good harvest much progress will be made this year, while everything is being done to reopen the oil wells, which were badly damaged by the Germans.

The thrifty, industrious nature of the people, their love of home, and their intense partiotism are assets which cannot be estimated, but which are qualities which will be appreciated above all countries in Canada. Mr. Lloyd Harris, head of the Canadian Mission in London, states that the way in which Roumania particularly looks to Canada for guidance in the present juncture is the most flattering compliment to Canada's record among the nations in the last twenty-five years. "You have built up," they say in effect, "a vast country from virgin soil. We also have similar conditions, and we would like to take Canada as our model."

RUINATION IN VIEW.

A man, whose cranium resembled a billiard ball, read the advertisement of "Dr. Bogus's Wonderful Lotion. Warranted to make the hair grow thick and curly on the baldest heads." In order to test the veracity of this announcement he went to the advertiser, and, purchasing a bottle of the liquid, inquired:

"Is it a fact that by applying your lotion to my head, I shall see my hair grow?"

"No doubt," answered the advertiser.

So, seating himself in front of a looking-glass, the hairless man began to smother his head with the stuff, and said, full of confidence:

"I will wait and see the result."

"What!" screamed the doctor. "Wait in my shop? Why, my lease is up in ten months."

STRIKE MEETING IS HELD BEHIND CLOSED GATES

Speakers Explain Reasons For Calling Out Affiliate Unions

TWO THOUSAND MEN GAIN ENTRANCE

The strike situation was discussed yesterday afternoon at a mass meeting of labor men held in the Royal Athletic Park.

Two Thousand Attend.

Some two thousand labor men were on hand at the park in response to an appeal issued by the Metal Trades Council to hear the views of the various labor leaders on the strike situation. Only those carrying union cards were admitted to the grounds and special precautions were taken to bar the entry of representatives of the "Capitalistic Press."

So great was the fear of publicity that unusual precautions were adopted to prevent the entrance of newspaper sleuths.

Sunday baseball is not popular in Victoria or outsiders might have been given a decidedly wrong impression of the steady masculine stream through the park barriers.

"Show your union cards," shouted the gatekeepers and it fared ill with those who were unable to produce the proper labor credentials. As a preliminary canter the Labor band played a few selections and about 2 o'clock the proceedings were opened by Captain Harboard, of the riggers, who had been detailed to the duties of Chairman. James Dakers, President of the Metal Trades Council, was the first speaker, and he was in characteristic form. "Jimmy" was in fine fettle, for although his delivery was a trifle wild at times, he tightened up in the pinches and slammed some hot liners over the plate, according to statements from an authoratative source.

He did his best to justify the action that had been taken by labor in calling a strike here in sympathy with the Winnipeg strikers, so The Times is informed. It was indicated that recent developments had completely changed his viewpoint and he was now heart and soul in the fight.

The policy of the Dominion Government was roundly scored by Dakers and subsequent speakers, among whom were E. S. Woodward, President of the Trades and Labor Council, and Robert Donnachie.

Although the meeting was orderly frequent interruptions occurred. One of the labor men present questioned the constitutionality of calling a strike, and this created a storm of objections.

In replying to the questioner the platform speaker admitted that the proposed strike was unconstitutional, but the strike had already been called, and nothing could intervene at that meeting to avert it.

It was announced by the chairman that only questions in writing would be answered.

Wants Government's Retirement.

During the course of the meeting a resolution moved by Frank Slavin demanding that organized labor call on the Government to resign and call an election on the present issue, was carried by the meeting.

A heavy rain shower which fell during the afternoon had the effect of creating a scurry for cover and somewhat depleting the crowd.

BALZAC'S HOUSE INTACT

Novelist Fled Through Trap Door to Escape Troublesome Visitors.

It is a pleasant pilgrimage on a fine afternoon to the garden house on the Passy hill in which Honore deBalzac (1799-1850) wrote much of the "Comedie Humaine." Piously restored to very much its original aspect, the house may be visited any day.

Cottage and garden hang upon the edge of a precipice above the Seine valley, divided by a narrow alley from the fine house and park once the property of the Princess de Lamballe, but now, as in Balzac's time, a lunatic asylum. The Rennaissance facade seen among the acacias and chestnuts is exactly as it was when Balzac's eyes looked down upon it.

In the novelist's study, newly hung with the same shade of red that Balzac adopted, is the insignificant table on which some of his finest books were written, and here, too, is his armchair covered with worn tapestry. The entry contains a trapdoor, through which the novelist used to escape the troublesome visitors.

May 16 was Balzac's birthday, and it was celebrated by a meeting of the society of Balzac's friends, held in the garden. Before the war the little house in the Rue Raynourd was frequently the scene of some such celebration in Balzac's honor, and all admirers of the "Comedie Humaine" were welcomed.

SPEAKING OF LUXURY TAXES.

I am sending around a ring, my dear,
For never can we be wed,
Our beautiful dream of yesterday
Is shattered and cold and dead.
And so I will bid you a fond good-by,
And worry along somehow,
For the tax on luxuries comes too high—
And a wife is a luxury now.

And it isn't only to wedded bliss
That I'm bidding farewell, my dear.
The years that will follow after this
Will be empty and dull and drear;
Secluded behind my chamber door
My days I shall have to pass,
For the clothes that in happier days I wore
Are all in the luxury class.

I hope that as long as I linger here
You will think of me now and then,
For shortly I'm going away, my dear,
Away from this world of men;
I shall be on another and taxless shore
When the luxury tax falls due,
In this cruel world I can stay no more
For life is a luxury, too.

REDS ARE RUINING CHILDREN OF RUSSIA

Lunacharsky's System of Calculated Moral Depravity Described by Swiss Teacher

The most diabolical of all measures conceived by the Bolshevist rulers of Russia to perpetuate their domination in their systematic corruption of coming generations to undermine and destroy family life, says the Geneva correspondent of The New York Times. To estrange children from their parents by encouraging them in unlimited indulgence of idleness and pleasure, to inculcate brutal and materialistic principles in the receptive minds of young boys and girls, is the surest method, the Soviet dictators think, to secure the duration of Bolshevism. The tragedy of Russian children was described to me a few days ago by a Swiss woman school teacher who has just arrived here from Russia after a residence of eleven years in Moscow.

Like all branches of the Soviet adminstration, the Department of Public Instruction in Moscow has two faces to the outer world: It presents a placid aspect of progressive Socialism and modern pedagogic ideals calculated to impress foreign intellectuals favorably for Russia; it is a political machine driven by and engendering tyranny, cruelty, and corruption. Lunacharsky, Commissary for Public Instruction, is a consummate comedian. Trading on his former reputation as an exiled idealist and man of letters, he issues decrees instituting a system of education based on Tolstoi's principles, and publishes articles in the Soviet press expounding elevated theories and exhibiting a most tender solicitude of Russia's youth. All this is to hoodwink unsuspecting pedagogues and win the sympathies of simple-minded enthusiasts in foreign countries.

Any one reading Lunacharsky's decrees and articles would suppose that Russia had been transformed into a children's paradise. But the truth is altogether different. There exists but one type of school in Russia today. This is officially the common school. It has three preparatory and four higher classes. The highest, the eighth class of the old Russian school, has been abolished. In each class there is an equal number of boys and girls, for co-education is one of Lunacharsky's fundamental principles.

No More School Books.

There are no longer any school books; not because the Bolsheviki are opposed to their use, but for the simple reason that the old school books are considered counterrevolutionaary, and the Department of Public Instruction has been too busy issuing decrees and instructions to teachers to publish new ones. The teachers are forbidden to give the children tasks to prepare at home and even question them during the lessons. All schools are under supervision of the educational Department of the local Soviets, which keep a close watch over the political tendencies of the teachers. Most of the old school teachers have been replaced by youths and young girls still in their teens, who have themselves barely been graduated from the highest class.

In some cases entirely illiterate supporters of the Bolshevist regime have been appointed in instructors. Thus the head master of the famous Alexandrowsky Cadet School is a former Corporal whose first act of arthority upon assuming his new functions was to prohibit the use of tooth brushes, tooth powder, combs, and all other toilet articles of a "bourgeois character." Some of the formeer school teachers have remained at their posts, but theirs is a sad lot. They are continually spied upon and subjected to every humiliation. there being no schedule of lessons, the scholars in the four higher classes decide themselves every day what they shall be taught. All educational questions are decided by school councils, whose meetings are, to say the least, extremely original. Side by side with the teachers sit delegates of the Scholars' Committees, children from the age of twelve upwards, and the decisions of the later are obligatory for the teachers.

Religious instruction, of course, is strictly forbidden, and even conversations on philosophical and moral subjects are regarded by the Soviet authorities as counter-revolutionary and prohibited. This prohibition is particularly fiendish because co-education in "absolute liberty," as instituted by Lunacharsky, must inevitably lead, in a primitive country like Russia, to revolting conditions if moral guidance be completely lacking. But it is a deliberate part of the Bolshivist plan to corrupt and deprave the children in order to obtain a lasting hold over them and to train them as future propagandists of Lenine's materialistic and criminal doctrine.

To this Satanic system of depravation belong "children's balls," which are arranged frequently in the schools by order of Lunacharsky. The parents are forced to send their children to these dances, which last until the early hours of morning. Last winter, in the streets of Moscow and Petrograd, it was painful to see miserable mothers waiting all night in the snow outside of brilliantly-illuminated school buildings, where their boys and girls were dancing the tango and foxtrot. The teachers assist at these balls, but are not allowed to exercise any authority over the children.

With tears in their eyes the mothers of Russia tell you:

"There are no longer any children in Russia to-day, only vicious little brutes whose talk is of money and pleasure."

The atmosphere of the Bolshevist schools is impregnated with precocious criminal instincts and bestial jealousy. All the children's time is taken up with flirtation and dancing lessons. In the State boarding schools boys and girls are quartered in the same dormitory.

Children's "Rural Colonies."

The Bolshevist propaganda makes a great point of the "children's rural colonies" established by Lunacharsky, and it is invariably stated in the writings of Lenine's admirers that the Soviet authorities, in spite of the terrible economic difficulties, are exerting themselves to the utmost to preserve the health of "the poor children" by good food and fresh air.

The following tragic incident narrated by the Swiss woman teacher to whom I am indebted for all this information, reveals how much truth there is in these assertions:

"Last summer," she said, "several hundred children were sent from Moscow into the Province of Tamboff, where the Soviet authorities declared they would be lodged in the former manor house and be able to feast on milk, eggs, butter, and all agricultural products.

"The children and their teachers were put into cattle trucks. The railway journey lasted several days, and many children were taken ill before they reached their destination. The manor house turned out to be half ruined and totally without furniture. The children were forced to sleep on the bare floor, without blankets, and the local peasant Soviets absolutely refused to supply them with food.

"After weeks of terrible privations, this children's colony returned to Moscow. Thirty per cent. of the children had died in the country. This case is typical, and all honest teachers refuse to conduct their pupils to Lunacharsky's rural colonies.

The unfortunate children of Russia must be delivered from their Bolshevist oppressors and seducers before it is too late. Otherwise, though Lenine may be finally overthrown, there will remain in Russia thousands of boys and girls morally corrupted, victims of the Bolshevist schools, who will be a future menace not only to Russia, but to the entire civilized world. The brave and upright men who are giving their lives in the crusade against the international criminals of Moscow are fighting for the children and mothers of Russia.

GERMANY WILL SIGN.

The announcement that Germany will sign unconditionally the peace treaty determined by the Allied and Associated powers in Paris was foreshadowed by the resignation of the Scheidemann Government. It was not anticipated that Scheidemann would sign. He was too closely identified with the pan-Germans and the Junkers to agree to an instrument one of the terms of which required the German Government to deliver to the Allies for trial and punishment William Hohenzollern, and the other war promoters and perpetrators of crimes against humanity whose names will be submitted to Weimar within the next thirty days. But it always was reasonably clear that Germany, through some Government, would sign the treaty, and the apprehensions of the Paris press that she would not do so were not based upon a very sound conception of German nature. Germany could do nothing else than sign. She is helpless on land and sea. She is under a blockade the continuation of which would have terrible consequences for her.

She realizes that she is confronted on every side with superior force, and that is something which every German for forty years has been taught to recognize at once and to obey. The treaty that will be signed by Germany has not been altered in its main essentials from the original instrument made public a few weeks ago. What changes have been inserted in it were designed chiefly to facilitate the making of reparation by Germany for the damage she wrought in her mad attempt to win world domination by the sword. Germany's long course of expiation is now beginning.

THE STRIKE MANIA.

The strike called by the Metal Trades Council in this city cannot influence the situation in Winnipeg in the slightest. The only possible effect it can have is local, stopping work in the shipyards and inflicting economic disability upon the community in general. There are no local grievances to correct. The working conditions as far as the shipyards are concerned are fixed by an agreement negotiated between the shipbuilding companies and the Council, and which is being violated and nullified by the present walk-out. It was an excellent agreement all-round, and its negotiation was the subject of much gratification to both sides. Now, it is being treated as "a scrap of paper" on account of a strike in a city 2,000 miles away which is declared by the leaders of organized labor to be unwarranted and not deserving of support. This agreement, of course, was negotiated on the principle of collective bargaining, so the Metal Trades Council can have no quarrel on that score.

We doubt if more than a small proportion of the employees in the shipyards are in favor of the strike. Any other view would be a reflection upon the commonsense of the majority. If the strike should continue for any considerable length of time many of the men, particularly those with families or with other interests in the community, will be involved in serious financial loss. Some of them, assuming that the Robertson agreement negotiated between the companies and the Metal Trades Council guaranteed continuity of employment, have contracted obligations which they cannot meet if they have to remain idle many days. The fact that these men must down tools against their will and against even some of the cardinal principles of organized labor at the behest of a little coterie of extremists, some of whom do not know what they want, affords a suggestive commentary on the degree of freedom and democracy permitted in this particular organization.

THE WINNIPEG RIOT.

The regrettable developments in Winnipeg on Saturday were the direct consequences of a calculated defiance by the rioters of the Mayor's proclamation forbidding street parades. That proclamation was issued in the interests of law and order when it was perceived that a continuation of processions, especially processions representing rival factions, was bound to result in trouble. When it was challenged on Saturday a clash became inevitable, for it was the duty of the properly constituted authorities of the place to enforce the law with all the means at their command.

If the "silent parade" organized by strikers and sympathizers had been permitted in the face of the proclamation the civic authorities would have abdicated their functions as the lawful guardians of the public safety and the ultimate consequences would have been much worse than those involved in the suppression of the rioting on Saturday. Law and order must be maintained at all costs and in maintaining it the authorities will have the support of the overwhelming majority of the public in this country.

We wonder, however, how many of the participants of the original dispute between the three metal firms and their employers were involved in Saturday's occurrences and how many were among the injured. It is quite possible that very few, if any, of them took part in the melee. Probably more than one person who to-day is nursing a broken head has nothing more than a vague idea of the issues involved in that dispute, which has been used as a pretext to paralyze the industry of western Canada, inflict hardship and suffering on thousands of people who never heard of the three firms involved, and to attempt a grand climax in the overthrow of our representative institutions.

NOT UNDER THE OLD ORDER.

In the discussion in the House of Commons on the bill to consolidate two Canadian naturalization laws now in force, Brigadier-General Griesbach objected to the naturalization of subjects of other countries whose own laws did not recognize such transfer of allegiance. In this he had in mind the status of Germans seeking naturalization in Canada, and the possibility that in the event of war they might promptly disown their adopted country and bear arms against her.

While the objection is well taken, it may be supposed that once Germany has regained her senses and begins to see that the old order will not do any more, her own constitutional structure will undergo an overhauling and emerge something nearer the pattern of a real democracy. With the League of Nations an actual fact, world propaganda superscribed by the double eagle will be no longer effective. For instance, the German who becomes naturalized abroad will not be subjected to the influence of such Germanic societies as the Flottenverein, whose membership throughout the world contained many Germans naturalized in Britain and America. It made possible, nevertheless, the creation of that mighty force which disappeared at Scapa Flow on Saturday. Until Germany agrees to forego her claim on her former citizens the outside world should rigidly refuse naturalization to them.

SWALLOWING UP A FLEET.

Saturday's denouement at Scapa Flow is a strange sequel to the great surrender to Sir David Beatty in December last. It was most unfortunate the armistice terms made no proper provision for the protection of interned German warships, and it would appear that somebody blundered then just as surely as somebody has blundered since. In the meantime what was once the pride of the ex-All Highest, a power, in the words of Prince Bernhard von Bulow, "that the strongest enemy would not attack without hesitation," lies beneath many fathoms of Scottish waters. How thorough the German seamen sought to make their simultaneous scuttling is evidenced by the latest report that the fighting ships at Kiel, at Wilhelmshaven and other ports also have been sent to the bottom.

Possibly the translation of the German warships from temporary internment to a state of permanent interment will occasion little regret in officialdom, and it may be that Staurday's development will remove a difficult international problem. But this should not be allowed to soften the corrective that must be meted out to the crews who plotted and finished the destruction of millions of dollars worth of valuable material. Nor should it eliminate the necessity of discovering why a good deal more vigilence was not exercised at Scapa Flow. The fact that news of activity on the warships was conveyed to responsible authorities by farmers in the neighborhood indicates that these valuable naval prizes were left very much to their own devices.

However, all the investigations and admonishments that may follow will not alter the fact that the German fleet has gone. The League of Nations will have one subject the less to deal with. Any heartburnings that might have arisen over the disposal of the surrendered fleet will be avoided. Neither Great Britain nor the United States wanted the ships. France put in a claim for some of them and may be somewhat annoyed at the loss, but on the whole no nation will go into mourning over what has happened at Scapa Flow. "Our future lies on the water!" exclaimed the then Kaiser when toasting his fleet a few years ago. In the light of the sequel he should have said, "Our future lies under the water."

TRAIL SMELTER CHARGES.

During the 1918 session of the Legislature a good deal was heard from the members representing the interior mining districts, who complained of the Trail Smelter charges. It was asserted with a considerable amount of alarm that unless better terms could be arranged many of the small operators would find it necessary to close their properties. As a consequence of this serious prospect a committee was nominated by the Associated Boards of Trade of Southeastern British Columbia, and formally appointed by the Dominion Government, whose duty it was to investigate the scale of charges known as "Schedule B." To make this inquiry a success the company agreed to place the whole of its books at the disposal of the committee and, in its report now made, the committee acknowledges every possible assistance having been given by the smelter people.

At Saturday afternoon's session of the International Mining Institute at Nelson the managing-director of the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company offered to meet the independent shippers half way in the matter of fixing smelter rates as well as in the division of sales in the markets of the world. This is a double concession on the part of the company and, when taken in conjunction with the committee's findings that prior to the adoption of "Schedule B" the smelter had been handling ores at an actual loss, no doubt will be satisfactorily received by the complaining operators. At any rate, it removes the suspicion that "Schedule B" has permitted profits out of all proportion—a firm-rooted belief which stirred the operators to action a year ago.

DEPARTMENT SENDS REFUSAL TO DREDGE

Hon. F. B. Carvell Gives His Opinion to Premier Oliver

Some time ago Premier Oliver wrote to the Hon. F. B. Carvell, Dominion Minister of Public Works, inclosing a letter from Thomas C. Sorby emphasizing the necessity of more dredging work being undertaken in the inner harbor. The Minister has now replied by sending to the Premier a copy of the report of the Assistant Chief Engineer and Superintendent of Dredging, to whose observations Mr. Carvell adds no encouragement.

Mr. Carvell writes to Mr. Oliver in part as follows, his observations crystallising in effect, if not in precise terms, the verdict of the Assistant Chief Engineer: "You will see from this that this Department has an opinion, first, that if done, he is referring, of course, to the dredging—it would be purely for the purpose of assisting a ship-building company which located itself somewhere on dry land without consulting this Department, and now wants us to dig them out. It may be good business, but I do not think so."

In other words the Department of Public Works at Ottawa does not consider further dredging in the inner harbor to be necessary. In his letter, however, Mr. Sorby intimated that the harbor was silting up, to which suggestion the Assistant Chief Engineer says in his report to Mr. Carvell that he will see "if there is any foundation for the damaging intimation made."

COLLECTORS PLAN TO CALL DURING EVENING

Result of Salvation Army Drive For $20,000 Will Be Known Shortly

The collection of the envelopes distributed on behalf of the Salvation Army on Thursday evening for the Red Shield Drive will be made this evening.

The week end gave adequate opportunity for every house in Victoria to recognize the splendid work of the army in peace and war time. It is expected that a very large number of persons will have responded to the appeal when the total comes to be tallied at the temporary headquarters, old Northern Crown Bank Building.

The object was to secure every dollar, or silver coin which the public could spare after numerous philanthropic calls, the organizers considering that the work of the Salvation Army was so well known as to win universal approval. The intervention of the strike, just at the close of the campaign, has inevitably resulted in some dislocation among the better paid craftsmen, but Adjutant Tutte, in charge of the drive, trusts that the labor situation will not be allowed to interfere with the appeal.

A substantial sum for the drive was realized by the sale of doughnuts on the streets on Saturday. Mrs. Harry Pooley drove a float with four horses for the purpose of securing sales for these toothsome morsels. Various prices were paid for the bags of doughnuts.

WORKERS THREW DOWN TOOLS WHEN STRIKE ORDER WENT FORTH

may have to leave. The Dominion lighthouse tender Estevan is also due at the Esquimalt plant for overhaul and repair, and this contract will probably be cancelled.

The Foundation Company has eight 3,000-ton wooden steamships under construction on the ways and eight other vessels of the same tonnage are lying at the outfitting plant at Ogden Point. The first of these ships is due to undergo her trials this week, but the strike will undoubtedly delay the vessel which it was hoped to get away on her steam tests.

Work on the other vessels in line will also be correspondingly delayed.

The contract held by the Foundation Company is for twenty full-powered wooden steamships to be delivered to the French Government by the end of the year.

With the exception of a few moulders all the employees of Hutchison Bros. engineering works left their jobs. The moulders remained behind to finish a cast at the Garbally Road shop.

Pickets of the seamen's union were active this afternoon in an effort to get the crew of the lighthouse tender Estevan to leave the ship.

Union teamsters will not be able to handle material to or from striking shipyards or other establishments affected by the walkout.

Labor Organizing.

The Metal Trades Council, which called the present walkout, has organized well in preparation for an extensive and possibly lengthy tie-up. Various committees to attend to the different details of the strike have already been formed, and the labor leaders express themselves as entirely satisfied with the course of events.

The chief committee is, of course, the strike committee, while there is also a law and order committee. This body has been formed for the purpose of keeping law and order, but union officials are unanimous in declaring that there will be no disorder attendant upon the strike. There is also an exemptions committee which will determine whether or not certain unions should or should not be called out. A transportation committee whose duty it will be to carry union officials from place to place and perform similar services has also been struck. Committees to take charge of picketing of the various shipyards and other establishments affected are now in existence, and it is probable that rigid observation of the various concerns tied up by the strike will be maintained.

A Press Committee.

A press committee which is empowered to give out information to newspaper representatives has been organized, but outside of stating that everything was going "on schedule" it refused to divulge any news this morning. Everything was going forward satisfactorily, a member of the committee declared.

Electrical Workers Vote "No."

So far as it is possible to judge at present electrical power in Victoria is not endangered by the present walk out, though the electrical workrs, who largely control the current, are affiliated with the Metal Trades Council. Meeting on Saturday night, the electrical workers passed the following resolution:

"That we, the members of L. N. No. 230, I. B. E. W. I., rescind all former resolutions passed with regard to the Winnipeg situation; And be it further resolved, that we hereby place ourselves on record to hold to the international constitution and to take no further action with regard to this situation without the authority of our international office. And furthermore that the Metal Trades Council are acting in an eptremely unconstitutional manner in calling a strike at 10 o'clock Monday, June 23."

The present strike is controlled entirely by the Metal Trades Council and involves only the unions affiliated with it. The Trades and Labor Council instituted the first referendum on the sympathetic strike issue, but it has nothing to do with the present situation. The Council is scheduled to meet on Wednesday evening to discuss the question of the One Big Union, but it is probable that the gathering will devote its time to consideration of the strike.

Loyalty League.

The Loyalty League will hold a meeting this evening to consider the situation which has developed by the walk-out of the unions affiliated with the Metal Trades Council.

AMERICAN LABOR FEDERATION ENDORSES TELEGRAPHERS' STRIKE

Atlantic City, N. J., June 23.—Endorsement of the commercial telegraphers' strike throughout the United States was unanimously voted to-day by the American Federation of Labor. The convention also went on record in favor of a forty-four-hour week for labor generally and directed the executive council to work for that end.

A BEDTIME STORY

UNCLE WIGGILY AND JIMMIE'S RADISHES

Copyright, 1918, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate. (By Howard R. Garis.)

Once upon a time Mrs. Wibblewobble, the duck lady, quacked to her little boy Jimmie and said:

"I wish you'd go to the one and two cent store for me and bring me back some nice red radishes for your father's supper."

"Of course I'll go," answered Jimmie. "And may I have a penny for a lolly-pop?"

"Oh, I guess so!" answered Mrs. Wibblewobble, with a laugh that sounded like popcorn rolling over a tin dishpan. So she gave Jimmie the money for the radishes, and an extra penny for himself, and the little duck boy started wibbling and wobbling on his way to the store. This was why he had the name "Wibblewobble," because he wibbled and wobbled from side to side as he walked.

Now just about this time Uncle Wiggily Longears, the rabbit gentleman, was on his way to the store for Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy, his muskrat lady housekeeper. She wanted a box of pepper, and Uncle Wiggily was going to take some of this same pepper for himself.

"Oh, no, he wasn't going to eat it. He was just going to sprinkle some of it on the big bologna sausage tires of his auto. The wheels went faster when he sprinkled pepper on them.

And as he rode along in his auto, Uncle Wiggily met Jimmie, the boy duck.

"Where are you going, Jimmy?" asked Mr. Longears.

"To the one and two cent store to get a bunch of red radishes," answered the duck boy.

"And I am going to the three and four cent store to get some black pepper for Nurse Jane and myself," went on the bunny rabbit gentleman. "Fly up, Jimmy, and I'll give you a ride."

Up Jimmie flew to the seat beside Uncle Wiggily, and soon they were gasolening over the fields and through the woods.

First they came to the one and two cent store, where Jimmie was to get the radishes.

"I'll leave you here, and ride on to the pepper store," said Uncle Wiggily, as he slowed up his auto. "And on my way back I'll stop and get you."

"That will be nice," Jimmie quacked, as down he flew, and then Mr. Longears skiddled along in his machine.

It did not take the little duck boy long to buy a bunch of radishes, and when he had paid for them, and put them in his pocket, he went over to the candy side of the store to look about lollypops.

There were some flavored with cornmeal, some with oats, others with barley and some with wheat, all of which Jimmie liked very much.

"But here is one that tastes like a strawberry shortcake," said the monkey doodle gentleman, who kept the store.

"I'll take that lollypop," said Jimmie, and he did. "Now I'll go out and walk along the road and wait for Uncle Wiggily to come back," thought Jimmie to himself, and he wibbled and wobbled on his way, eating the strawberry shortcake lollypop.

And, all of a sudden, Jimmie saw, just in front of him, the bad old Pipsisewah and the Skeezicks. They had dug a big hole in the road and were covering it over with leaves and grass so it hardly looked like a hole at all.

"I wonder why they are doing that?" thought Jimmie, as he hid behind a bush so that Skee and the Pip wouldn't see him. And a moment later he found out why.

"We'll surely catch Uncle Wiggily this time," said the Pipsisewah, as he flapped his ears.

"Right you are," growled the Skeezicks. "We have dug this hole in the road, and so covered it up that he will not see it as he comes along in his auto. He'll run right into the hole ker-bunko! Then we'll rush out and grab him, and get all the sousе we want!"

"Dear me!" thought Jimmie Wibblewobble, hidden behind the bushes, with the red radishes in his pocket. "Dear me! This is dreadful! How can I let Uncle Wiggily know the danger he is in? I can't get past the Skee and the Pip to warn him! Oh, if I only had a telephone, or something like that."

Then Jimmie stuck the tip of one wing in his pocket and felt the radishes. He took out one, sort of absent-minded like.

"Radishes are red," he thought. "Red means danger. If I could tell Uncle Wiggily of the danger he will get into, if he comes riding along this road, I can save him. Ha! I have it. I can throw the radishes from here, where I am hidden behind the bush, over into the road past the hole that is covered with leaves. Uncle Wiggily will see the red radishes on the road, he'll know they mean danger. He'll stop and then I can call to him about the Pip and the Skee. I'll do it!"

With his strong wings Jimmie threw the radishes far over the heads of the Pip and Skee, so that the red vegetables fell into the road past the hidden hole.

Then from where he nestled under the bush Jimmie watched. He saw Uncle Wiggily come scooting down the road in his auto. All of a sudden, just before he was about to ride into the grass-covered hole, the rabbit saw the radishes in front of him.

"Ha! Jimmie's red radishes!" cried Uncle Wiggily. "Here in the road. They are red, and red means danger! I'll turn around and go back the other way!"

So he did, and he didn't fall into the hole and the Skee and the Pip didn't get any souse at all. Then Jimmie ran back to the store and bought some more radishes, charging them, and later he met Uncle Wiggily, and told him what had happened.

"You are a very smart little duck!" said the rabbit gentleman. "Here is a penny for another lollypop." And if the apple dumpling doesn't go sliding down hill with the lemonade and get stuck in the sugar bowl, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the pie plant.

GRANITE MONUMENT MARKS FIRST HOME OF CITY'S FOUNDER

Gift of Lady Douglas Chapter Was Unveiled on Saturday

Many representatives of the old-time pioneer families of Victoria were present at the unveiling on Saturday of a granite tablet, erected by the Lady Douglas Chapter I. O. D. E. to mark the site of the residence formerly occupied by Sir James Douglas in Elliott Street. A picturesque air was given to the impressive ceremony by the standards of the various I. O. D. E. Chapters, representatives of which occupied the background, the Boys' Naval Brigade in charge of Capt. Jones-Evans, and the cadets of South Park School under Capt. St. Clair, and Girl Guides with Miss (Captain) Leighton, forming a guard of honor for the Lieutenant-Governor and his aide-de-camp, Captain Mellin.

Appropriate Inscription.

Mrs. Dennis Harris, the youngest daughter of the late Sir James, performed the unveiling ceremony, releasing the flag which hid the following inscription:

"Erected June 21, 1919, by the Lady Douglas Chapter, I. O. D. E., to commemorate the landing of Sir James Douglas and the founding of Victoria, March 14, 1843."

On the reverse side the inscription reads:

"This tablet marks the spot on which the Governor's residence stood. Sir James Douglas, K. C. B. Born 1803; died 1877. Governor of British Columbia, 1858-1864. Governor of Vancouver Island, 1851-1863."

The Speakers.

His Honor then read the inscription aloud and formally presented the tablet to Mayor Porter who in turn accepted it on behalf of the City of Victoria. Reginald Hayward, Chief Factor of the Native Sons of Victoria, Post No. 1, spoke a few words in tribute to the pioneers who helped lay the foundations of the Empire. He was followed by George Bushby, grandson of Sir James, who indulged in reminiscence of his childhood days spent on that very spot. He also made a plea for the preservation of such historic undertakings as the historic Cariboo Road with the building of which the late Sir James and many other pioneers had been associated.

As a memento of the historic occasion, Mrs. Schofield, honorary regent of the Lady Douglas Chapter, presented Mrs. Harris a silver bonboniere suitably inscribed, while little Maud Renwick presented her with a bouquet of yellow roses. Mrs. McMicking, regent of the Chapter, was presented with a handsome basket of crimson roses, Ettie John Bushby making the presentation on behalf of the Chapter. The impressive ceremony closed with the singing of the National Anthem and the Doxology.

A PUZZLING RELATIONSHIP.

I'm a married man of forty and my wife is forty-one;
She'd a daughter, when I spliced her, who to womanhood had grown.
Now this daughter's my stepmother—my old dad, aged sixty-three,
Has married her; they've got a babe—now, what is babe to me?
Then my father's now my stepson, by his marriage, that is plain.
But his wife is my stepmother. Oh, 'twill soon drive me insane;
For if I'm father's father, then it follows I must be,
Why, my blessed own grandfather, that's quite evident, you see.
I've thought baby was my grandson, but again that cannot be;
I cannot be grandfather to a brother, you will agree.
But if it is my brother, then it's very plain to me
That my wife must be grandmother to her husband, don't you see.
Oh, what pretty complications, little baby, have you made!
You have boxed up all relations, and that, too, of every shade.
Am I brother, am I cousin, am I grandad, or, in fine,
Can I be your aunt or uncle, or is it that you are mine?

TRICKS OF WAR WIDOWS

Little did the Government realize, when it provided that a war widow should receive a dowry on re-marriage, what would be the consequences. The immediate effect was that such women became the heiresses of the poor, and were so eagerly sought in matrimony that the authorities ultimately reduced the "dot." Originally an amount equal to two years' issue of the pension, it was cut down to an amount equal to only one year's issue of the pension, its present rate.

Unwittingly, too, a number of traps were set for "fortune" hunters. One widow was persuaded to go through the ceremony of marriage with her grandfather or some other person in the prohibited degree, and subsequently she sent in her "ring" paper and claimed the re-marriage gratuity. The result staggered her and her husband also. For she was gravely informed that she had forfeited her pension through misconduct, and was not entitled to the gratuity because she was not in fact re-married.

Somewhere, again, there is a bitterly disappointed man who married a widow only to find that she was not entitled to the pension she was drawing and consequently not eligible for the gratuity. Unable to bear this blow, he disappeared, leaving his wife to her own devices.

In many cases, moreover, the gratuity has been an irresistible inducement to bigamy. On the day of her "marriage" for the second time a Yorkshire widow returned her "ring" paper, and the following morning her "husband" was arrested. At his trial it was proved that he had gone through the ceremony of marriage with six or seven women, and he was sentenced to a long term of imprisonment.

There is, however, another side to the shield. Not long since, for instance, a woman called on the secretary of a certain local war pensions' committee, announcing that she had "come about the marriage money."

"But," protested the official, "you've re-married and had the gratuity."

"I don't mean that," said the woman, drawing from her pocket an official envelope. "The other pore dear's gone now, an' I want to know how I shall go on if I marry a third time."—Tit-Bits.

LEADING HOTELMEN IN CITY YESTERDAY

Delegation to Greeters' Convention at Portland Welcomed by Mayor Here

"The most successful day we have had in our tour" was the description given by one of the seventy men forming part of the Greeters of America party which arrived in the city yesterday. The delegation, which numbered in all nearly one hundred, including thirty ladies, was on its way to the convention of the Greeters which will open in Portland to-morrow. To meet this body of hotelmen Louis Lucas, president of the Seattle chapter, proceeded to the Mainland.

The Victoria chapter was represented at the welcome in Vancouver by Messrs. Sinclair and Waram, who also were joined in Vancouver by Stephen Jones, the proprietor of the Dominion Hotel. They returned with the delegation on the Princess Patricia.

In addition to the party which arrived from the East, and which was headed by Mr. Gould, a New Hampshire hotelman, there were in the delegation yesterday, Seattle, Los Angeles and Portland men.

The Tour.

The whole party immediately, on arrival of the steamer proceeded on an automobile tour which included the Marine Drive, by way of Oak Bay to the Uplands, and back through Rockland Avenue and Craigdarroch to town. On arrival at the Empress Hotel, Mayor Porter expressed a few words of welcome, and the party responded with cheers. They were then shown over the hotel before leaving on the steamer for Seattle. During to-day they will be the guests of the Seattle Chapter.

As a tribute to the summer flora of Victoria each lady received a bouquet of flowers before leaving.

The Leading Delegates.

Some of the leading men in the party were:

Henry J. Bohn, President of the Hotel World, Chicago.

Frank A. Ready, Hotel McAlpin, New York.

Jack Ball, editor of the technical section of The Hotel Review, New York.

George C. Brittain, Detroit.

H. C. Angleberger, Denver.

J. M. Campbell, Maryland Hotel, St. Louie.

J. J. Harrison, Glen Inn, Sioux City, Iowa.

Among the party to meet them, in addition to Mr. Lucas, of Seattle, who was a former hotel man here, was S. J. Dalton, of The Hotel News, Seattle, and P. E. Houlette, of the Savoy Hotel, Los Angeles.

The Organization.

The Greeters of America is an organization composed of proprietors, managers, assistant managers, clerks, auditors and bookeepers. The association was organized in Denver, Col., in June, 1910, by Leigh H. Fuller, now a candidate for national president, and V. S. Warriner, the association's national secretary. C. Fred Braendlin, then a hotel clerk in Denver, was elected its first president. This will be the eighth annual convention of the association, it being missed last year on account of the war.

The organization has 5,000 members, and through its secretary publishes a monthly organ called The American Greeter. It is the largest hotel organization in the world, and growing steadily.

Its present president is R. D. McFaddan, owner of the Pathfinder Hotel, at Fremont, Nebraska.

PRICELESS WORKS OF ART LOST DURING WAR

Stray Art Treasures Is Now Suggested

The advertisement by Baron Vinck, owner of the Chateau of Hooghe, near Ypres, for the recovery, if possible, of objects of art that formerly adorned his mansion which have fallen into other hands during the war, raises a very interesting point for the art-loving world, namely, the establishment of an international "pound" for lost art treasures, says a London dispatch.

In the last four years valuable treasures have been scattered to the four winds. Great efforts have been made to get the bulk of the famous works of art out of the devastating line of Mars, but it has been only partially successful, and there are to-day, as a well known art collector pointed out recently, many thousands of pounds worth of precious artistic works buried beneath the battlefields of Europe.

Pictures, tapestry, carvings, manuscript and wrought precious metals have been stored in the vaults of chateaux, or walled up in hidden chambers—and in some cases the persons who set their seals upon the stores have died.

The Russian Mystery.

One of the mysteries in the art world to-day is as to what has become of the magnificent treasures previously housed in the palaces of the Romanoff Dynasty. An art dealer told me that he feared Russia had suffered at the hands of the Bolsheviks as much as any country in such losses.

"Information has reached us," he said, "of the manner in which priceless works have been treated, but in most instances I should be most inclined to believe that what has been done to destroy or maltreat works of art in Russia has been the result of ignorance rather than malice."

The idea of an international "pound" for lost artistic works was supported by a member of the firm of Duveen, whose repositories have housed so many famous works. "The idea is a novel and useful one," he said, "and I do not see why it could not be established to carry out some very useful work."

If responsible persons were appointed in every European country, and their functions co-ordinated under one administration, much valuable information might be focussed into one bureau for the benefit of individuals who are seeking objects lost during the war.

It does not follow that objects of this character are deliberately stolen: purloined goods have no "back-door" sale.

If they get into the hands of the small dealers they ultimately come to the large buyers, whose circle is so intimate that it is almost impossible for a thief successfully to dispose of any high priced object. The main idea of the "pound" would be for war-strayed articles.

One result of the war has been to enhance the value of works of art of all kinds. Messrs. Duveen's manager said there had never been such a demand for treasures of this sort before—especially furniture.

"All these things don't go to America," he said. "The secret of the high prices which are being obtained is that there is in every Allied country to-day a new stratum of society—the war parvenu. This class has money to burn, and they are prepared to burn it in getting good furniture, good paintings, and valuable curios to adorn their new homes. Hence the boom in genuine antiques."

LECTURE ON CHRISTIAN SCIENCE BY BLANCHE K. CORBY, C.S.B.

Blanche K. Corby, C.S.B., Member of the Board of Lectureship of The Mother Church The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass., delivered a lecture on "Christian Science," 'Sunday afternoon last under the auspices of First Church of Christ, Scientist, Victoria, in the Royal Victoria Theatre.

The lecturer was introduced by Mr. R. C. J. Were, First Reader of First Church of Christ, Scientist, Victoria, who said:

Ladies and Gentlemen:

On behalf of First Church of Christ, Scientist, of this city, it gives me much pleasure to welcome you this afternoon to listen to a lecture on Christian Science. These lectures are provided for the purpose of correcting misconceptions as to the teachings of Christian Science, and also with a loving wish to spread abroad the good news which has brought so much comfort and blessing into the lives of thousands in all parts of the world.

Christian Science presents to sinful, sick and sorrowing humanity a practical, scientific and demonstrable Christianity—a fuller vision of the Christ-Truth, the truth of which Jesus spoke when he said "Ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." Students of this science are finding out that in proportion as they are faithful in applying its teachings to their problems, they can know the truth about all inharmonious conditions, and realize their freedom from fear, limitation, sin and disease. In loving obedience to the Master's command to preach the Gospel to every creature, they are daily striving to reflect the healing and regenerative power of infinite Life, Truth and Love, and to let it be known by their fruits that they are the sons and daughters of God.

It is my privilege to introduce to you Mrs. Blanche K. Corby, C.S.B., of Los Angeles, California, Member of the Board of Lectureship of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts, who will now address you.

Mrs. Corby in her lecture said:

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE—THE REVELATION OF TRUTH

The message that Christian Science brings to the world to-day is one of good cheer; it is one of hope, comfort, health and complete salvation. To a world stricken with suffering, Christian Science offers deliverance from all the discords of life. Every one desires to live because life is natural and normal, and a knowledge of the best means whereby life may be conserved and made harmonious is indeed most worthy of our thought and consideration. Humanity generally has not looked to God for daily and hourly help in times of trouble. It has not believed that God is available under all conditions and circumstances; but there is no human condition so desperate, no disease so obstinate that man cannot be released through divine aid, for God who is Love, is all powerful.

GOD

Man's understanding of God reaches the pinnacle when he declares and knows that God is Love. This synonym for God is the highest concept of him. It is the tender, compassionate sense which was expressed by Christ Jesus in his work.

Because Christian Scientists no longer have a personalized, limited sense of God but speak of him as Divine Principle, the objection is sometimes made that this term applied to deity seems abstract and cold, but as the true meaning of the word principle is basis or foundation which governs all that proceeds from it, we find that the term is a most appropriate one for God.

Every thinking person is cognizant of things that exist; because of his belief in the existence of things, he believes that there is a first cause or creator. Christian Science proclaims that God is cause of all created things. It declares as Omnipresence and Omnipotence, the all-inclusive infinite One, or, as Mrs. Eddy so comprehensively states, "The Adorable One" including all life, law, power, intelligence, and action. This all-inclusive Omnipotence or the One Presence is best understood as Mind. The one omnipotent Mind or one conscious Being is expressed after its own kind, then all that expresses it must be mental because the activity of mind is thought. Everything is mental, whether upon a good or evil, a mind and its beliefs, the state spiritual or material plane. All that we are conscious of to-day is the result of thought, that we exist as mortals is the result of thought that has gone before. All the history of the past and all present human activity are mental. Every human achievement,—every discovery brought to light—is the result of somebody's thought. If it were possible for thought to cease on earth to-day, complete inaction, which is death, would result. All that engages man's attention, the daily routine of business, of home and family, the great manufacturing activities, agricultural development, all the pursuits of life, would cease. Every complaint of the body is expressed through thought. If man could not think he could not be conscious of bodily pain and discomfort; it is only when all things are resolved into thought, into mental conditions, that the mystery of evil disappears. All wrong thought with its discordant results can be corrected by right thinking which can be continued only from the standpoint of changeless Truth, Divine Principle or spiritual unfoldment.

SALVATION

Salvation is gained through right thinking. Many theories of salvation have been presented to the world, but only one has proved satisfactory and unfailing. Christ Jesus came as the way-shower declaring and demonstrating a full and complete salvation. Jesus did not teach that a man must die in order to be saved or to reach God; nowhere in the Scriptures is found any authority for saying that he considered evil and death at all necessary or in accord with divine law; but he did say, "If a man keep my saying, he shall never see death."

When the beginner in Christian Science reads in the Scriptures that God pronounced his creation good; that he was satisfied with it; that he was entirely satisfied with man made in his own image and likeness; that this man was given dominion over all the earth; the question is sure to arise, what has taken place that man is not expressing his God-given dominion to-day? Christian Science reveals to this age the fact that nothing has happened to weaken or to destroy man's God-given dominion. It is impossible that man, made in the image and likeness of God could fall into evil and sin, yet the belief that he did so fall has caused all of the sorrow and suffering on earth. The beginner further asks, "If God is Infinite Good, where did evil come from, what is its cause and origin?" When we learn to think in accord with Divine Mind, we find that evil in individual consciousness disappears and that, therefore, the only cause for evil or sin is a false belief, a wrong thought, and not a spiritual fact. In the degree that man ceases to think evil, evil and sin disappear; and proportionately as that disappearance takes place, goes all the mystery of evil, all its presence and power.

HEALING

The first step toward freedom from evil is generally taken through the desire for physical healing. The healing method of Christian Science, the healing method used by Jesus, is unique, but there is no mystery, nothing supernatural about it. It is the simple teaching of Jesus, the spontaneous and natural result of better thinking. The physical healing in Christian Science is not for the purpose of making a man more comfortable in materiality, of enabling him to eat more food without discomfort, or to indulge more freely in appetites and passions without evil effects, but the whole purpose of healing is to reveal the truth about life. It heals the sick to establish the fact of the reality of God or good, and it heals the sinner to prove the unreality of sin or evil. Christian Science does not teach that sickness and evil do not seem real to the human consciousness; but it does teach that the human consciousness is a false consciousness expressing itself according to its false beliefs in all the phenomena of evil and sickness, and that healing through a correction or overcoming is accomplished through the understanding of God and his Law.

Throughout human history man has deified himself, he has created God in the image and likeness of a mortal instead of finding that he himself is the image and likeness of God. Because God has been believed to be a mighty being manifesting jealousy, anger, revenge, visiting his wrath upon his people; the belief that might is right has grown to the utmost. As the result, human history is a record of the cruelty of the human will. Since the days of Pharoah, prominent characters have wielded the iron rod of tyranny and despotism as exemplified by Xerxes when he commanded his soldiers to shout as they lashed the waves of the Hellespont, "Xerxes, thy master, bids thee be still;" until to-day, we see the worst propensities of man incorporated into some forms of government as law. Because of the deification of the mortal or material ment is sometimes ignorantly made that the healing of Christian Science is wrought through suggestion, or the action of the human mind,—one mind controlling another human mind. In order to correct this accusation made against Jesus' healing works, he said, "If I by Beelzebub cast out devils, by whom do your children cast them out?" (Matt. 12, 27) and showed that evil cannot correct evil. The human mind, unillumined, and uninstructed in spiritual law, cannot possibly understand spiritual healing, nor the means by which it is accomplished; so it insists that it must be after its own method, that is, the operation of the human will through hypnotism or what is popularly called modern psychology. Nothing could be farther from the truth.

The teacher of mathematics does not subject his pupil to a state of hypnosis in order to teach the science of numbers, but reveals to him the principle of mathematics, the truth about numbers. If each step in the solution of a problem were mentally imposed upon the more yielding thought of the child, he would not be trained to think for himself: on the contrary, he would be schooled in the habit of responding to suggestion from without. The pupil, to be alert and progressive, must be taught to think correctly, he must be free from the personal domination and control of the teacher. In like manner, the Christian Science practitioner knows that the human will must be divorced from every Christian Science treatment; indeed the human will cannot give a Christian Science treatment. The practitioner's part in the healing work is to reveal to the patient the science or truth of being, and this truth at work in the consciousness of the sufferer heals and saves. Evil, a fundamental quality of the human mind, believing as it does in both good and evil, cannot heal. It is wholly through the action and operation of spiritual law that the sick are healed. Christian Science treatment creates a desire to know and to do the will of God. It is regenerating in its influence. Mesmeric suggestion and hypnotism weaken the subject's ability to do what is right. His subjection to another mentality is in itself an evil. Healing is not accomplished through concentration or holding the thought for others, but through consecration of thought and purpose and love for God and man. The reading of the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," has cured thousands of sickness and sin; one hundred pages of the book contain testimonials of healing through the reading alone. No mesmeric suggestion was used by the book to accomplish such results, no human domination or control was exercised, but the revelation of truth contained in those pages opened the understanding, and healing followed as a natural consequence.

The objection is sometimes made that Christian Science practice does not take into account the symptoms of disease. It does, however, recognize the symptoms but only to analyze the mental cause which has produced the physical suffering. If the mental cause is found to be hatred, fear, resentment, grief, or anxiety, what prescription could be administered internally, or what application could be applied outwardly that could possibly correct such cause of disease? Because the popular forms of healing deal with the effect instead of the cause, there is a long list of what are called incurable diseases; incurable, only because some men have said that they cannot cure them. Jesus never said that disease is incurable, but instead said to the woman who had been bowed together for many years, "Satan hath bound thee;" in other words, her belief in evil had caused her physical infirmity. The majority of cures wrought by Christian Science have been of diseases pronounced incurable, and the great ranks of Christian Scientists to-day are composed largely of those who have been compelled to turn to God for aid because some man has said he could not heal them. Happy day when one learns that man cannot heal, but that God can and does.

Centuries of time can never make a lie or false claim true, for it was false from the beginning; neither can centuries of misconception diminish the power of God, who is the same yesterday, to-day, and forever.

MANKIND'S GREATEST ENEMY

Fear is the arch-enemy of humanity, and many are those who are living under its constant pressure and know not how to escape from its bondage. Throughout all time man has bowed down to fear as to a false god, and is confronted by its suggestions in all the activities of human existence. Fear attends his advent into the world, and throughout his life he is educated to be afraid; afraid of the food he eats, the air he breathes, and of the wind that blows; he is afraid of his brother man, afraid of his own body, and afraid of God. Little wonder that he is sick and in trouble. Christian Science reveals that God's universe including man was created without fear, therefore fear is without hope and without God, and anything without God has no real existence, because God is the only Creator. Christian Science says to the sorrowing and fearful, you are suffering only from false beliefs, the result of ignorance and fear; ignorance of the changeless laws of God, Good, and fear of the ever-changing laws of man. To give an example of the instability of the laws of man, a former generation considered tomatoes a deadly poison, while to-day they are recommended as a most wholesome food. The Christian Science practitioner knows that man needs to be freed from ignorance and fear, which he recognizes as the predisposing cause of disease. The sick are healed to establish the fact of the reality of good and the unreality of error. The healing in Christian Science is not confined to physical healing alone, but may be applied throughout the whole range of human experience. It is indeed so intensely practical that it can be used in the routine of everyday life. Since God is the only Cause or Creator, all real law emanates from him, and there is no peace or safety in living in disobedience to his law. The engineer who spans the yawning chasm over which great trains are rushed in safety, owes his accomplishment to absolute obedience to the laws governing construction. These laws were in existence in prehistoric days, but man was limited in his execution of them, because of his ignorance of them. Christian Science is the religion of opportunity. When it is understood that opportunity is a divine idea, therefore boundless and unlimited, and that it is always knocking at the door of consciousness, man will enjoy success instead of failure, and when he knows success from the standpoint of Principle, he will be able to understand the failures of the past and profit thereby.

One of the greatest torments that beset mankind is the fear of lack. The law of Infinite mind includes no provision for poverty and lack. Christian Science teaches that the amplitude of God is the sufficient supply of man enabling him to be fed and clothed and is the true substance which is changeless and imperishable. Jesus, the man of God, knew no lack nor limitation. He turned water into wine when there seemed to be a lack at the marriage feast, he multiplied the loaves and the fishes when the multitudes believed there was no bread, he found gold in the fish's mouth when the disciples said there was no money for taxes. Throughout his whole career he constantly supplied the needs of humanity, proving that God is a God of abundance; and at the most crucial moment in his whole career, when forsaken of men, even by his own disciples, Jesus was forced to prove the abundance of life by overcoming death on the cross. When he declared, "Thy will be done," he overcame death, because in declaring the will of God he declared the law of life. In overcoming death, man's most feared enemy, he proved the continuity of consciousness,—the eternality of life.

CHRIST JESUS

It is generally accepted by all Christians that Christianity relates essentially to the system taught and demonstrated by Christ Jesus and it is also believed that Jesus' plan of salvation reveals the true way; in the healing of disease, raising the dead, and in all the works of his ministry, he was bearing witness to the truth in accordance with the law of God. Christianity is not the creed of any sect; it is the demand of God to be Christlike and to prove faith by works. The Christians of the world believed in Jesus as a teacher and spiritual leader instead of a healer, but it was wholly by his works that he proved his divinity. True religion is not a theory, but a knowledge of the science of being, to be wrought out in life practice. The need of the world to-day for a religion which inspires its followers to emulate Christ Jesus in his teachings and practice is fully met by Christian Science. If Christians are to continue in the Word as followers of Jesus, they must prove they accept it to be true by doing the works. Jesus proved what he knew by what he did. All that he said and did was from the basis of the demonstrated Christ, Truth, and the same Christ, Truth, is as available and demonstrable to-day as when Jesus lived upon earth. A so-called law that can be annulled or set aside; that some supernatural event may be produced, was never a law but a belief; the law of Infinite Mind is eternal and unchanging and cannot possibly be violated or set aside that so-called miracles may be performed. Jesus did not violate but fulfilled all law, and individually he did all there was to do and then said to his followers, "Be of good cheer, I have overcome the world" (John 16, 33), the world of material sense and his was the example for all time.

CHRIST

The Christ or Truth by which Jesus overcame the world, Paul said, "Was without father, without mother, without descent, having neither beginning of days nor end of life." (Hebrew 7, 3). Mrs. Eddy defines Christ as, "The divine manifestation of God which comes to the flesh to destroy incarnate error." (Science and Health p. 583). All through human history great spiritual leaders have proclaimed the Christ. Abraham departed from the idol worship of his fathers, because he discerned something beyond the material sense of existence and proclaimed the one God as Spirit. Isaac, Jacob, and all the prophets who followed were able, through spiritual discernment, to look beyond the veil of matter, and to discern the Christ, Truth, or Saviour of the people, with signs following. After centuries of trial and great suffering, with here and there a glimpse of the Christ, Truth, which gave strength and courage to those who discerned, came John the Baptist declaring, "The Kingdom of Heaven is at hand": and immediately following came the greatest prophet of all, the man, Christ Jesus, who gave so clear and practical a demonstration of the Christ, Truth, that it will forever remain a dispensation among men.

The healing of the early Christian church was a natural part of its religion and will always remain the natural part of Christianity. Again came the long night of materialism as the result of the waning faith of the early Christians in the power of God to save them from persecution. In their dire distress they yielded to the temptation to which we are all subjected under pressing circumstances, and made the mistake of looking away from the power that had always helped them to mere materialism; instead of turning to God, they turned to a human personality, and perhaps to one of the most subtle and deceitful personalities that history records. They looked to Constantine to befriend them and because of turning from Principle to person their power to heal was lost. Ritualism and ceremony usurped the proofs that Jesus required of his followers, and for centuries preaching and profession were considered the essentials of Christianity; then there appeared in fulfilment of prophecy a woman bringing a new light upon the Scriptures, a vision of the eternal Christ coming, as of old, because of the world's great need. Christian Scientists believe that the revelation of truth has appeared to-day in "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy. What will be the place in human history of this book that has again revealed God to man and that has given such liberation to humanity, such certainty of deliverance? Can its revelation be anything less than the revelation of the same healing Christ, Truth, of the ages? In asserting that Christian Science heals to-day as it did long ago we have only to offer the teaching of Jesus, the proofs of his ministry, and the fruits of our work. This practical operation of Christianity will always be the witness of Christ.

Christian Scientists do not claim that the full scope and measure of healing has been accomplished to-day; they are constantly striving for the mind of Christ; that they may do better work to-day than yesterday. Progress is the eternal unfoldment of Truth in individual consciousness, and the growth of a student of Christian Science is the proof of his faith.

PRAYER

Prayer is supposed to have a place in the daily life of every consistent Christian, and is generally believed to be the means by which man communicates with God; Jesus attached so much importance to the right concept of prayer that he gave that greatest of all prayers, beginning, "Our Father, which art in Heaven." Nowhere did Jesus, teaching as he did that he was not God, instruct his followers to pray to him; neither did he instruct them to appeal to any other personality, but without intercession, to approach God with loving confidence. How many good Christians have absolute confidence that prayer is always answered? The crying need of the world is to know how to pray aright, to pray the righteous prayer which availeth much. "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" contains a chapter on prayer which is accepted by Christian Scientists and acknowledged by many other advanced thinkers to be the greatest treatise on prayer ever written. In this chapter Mrs. Eddy says, "desire is prayer," then she clearly sets forth what the right desire and purpose of prayer must be; her exposition is in exact accord with the teachings of Jesus. Christian Science teaches that by constantly thinking the truth, we fulfil Jesus' command to pray constantly. The truth, the spiritual fact about all things, exists, and the knowing of this is the constant or righteous prayer.

Mortal mind, the supposed opposite of God or Spirit, always presents an inverted sense of things; it believes only in itself and comprehends all things from its own standpoint and after its own likeness. If its claims and beliefs are the inversion of truth, then the very opposite of what material sense claims is true; to gain the experience of answered prayer we must hold thought to the spiritual reality of things. Jesus when he instructed his disciples in prayer said, "What things soever ye desire, when ye pray, believe that ye receive them, and ye shall have them." Much of the prayer of the world has been uttered for material things or for the fulfilment of human desires and it is never answered. Jesus denounced such prayer, but the moment we know that God has given all good to man and that all good now and eternally is, that moment we begin to receive the benefits of prayer and experience its blessings. That moment may be the present moment—"Now is the day of salvation," cried Paul to a people who were looking to a future salvation, and Christian Science declares that to-day is the day of salvation to those who demonstrate the same Christ, Truth.

Mankind has emerged but slowly out of paganism because it has not known how to pray intelligently. It has prayed to every kind of graven image, and to a humanized sense of Deity which, after all, is only its own graven image. Christian Science treatment is prayer, but it does not create nor change anything but false beliefs, neither does it operate because of any mental argument, but because it declares and demonstrates the spiritual facts of being; true prayer is deliverance from evil beliefs, and is the process by which man gains heaven here and now.

THE BIBLE

Christian Scientists accept the teaching of the Bible from Genesis to Revelation and believe that the golden thread of truth running throughout unites all ages as the Christ is revealed. Science and Health has given an illumination to the Scriptures that enables the student to comprehend their spiritual import. If the Bible is God's word to his people, then it is for us to-day to know and to understand it. No longer do Christian Scientists read the Scriptures in a perfunctory manner, but it is their delight to read and study them daily. "The last fifty years have witnessed an intensity and breadth of interest in Bible study unprecedented in the history of the Christian church," is the testimony of no less an authority than the Rev. C. I. Scofield, D.D., editor of the Scofield Reference Bible.

The first tenet of The Christian Science Church reads, "We take the inspired word of the Bible as our sufficient guide to eternal Life;" Christian Science teaches unreservedly, as necessary for sound doctrine what are considered the essentials of religion; it teaches that there is one infinite, omnipresent Father-Mother God, the creator of all. It teaches the divine sonship in the ever-present Christ; the Holy Ghost, or Comforter, in the unfolding consciousness of fatherhood and sonship; the atonement or man's at-one-ment with God through Christ as demonstrated by Jesus when he proved that life is eternal; the baptism of Spirit, which cleanses from the impurities of the carnal or fleshly mind; and the resurrection through progress and growth in Truth into the complete satisfaction and perfection of God and his likeness.

The Bible as a book of human history would be of no more value to-day than any other ancient history were it not for that golden thread of Truth which has preserved it throughout all time and has made it sacred to all Christian people. The Christian warfare, the strife in individual consciousness, is ever the same in the overcoming of evil with Truth, therefore, the experiences of the people of God, of every prophet and apostle, depict the conflict between good and evil experienced by every mortal. Religious history presents different conditions of thought; the story of Job's life is illustrative of the life of every man born into the flesh. Mortal man, like Job, has looked in vain for a contented state of mind. Searching for satisfaction he has plunged into every pleasure only to find disappointment. Business and the accumulation of money have been the resort of many to gain content and peace of mind, but the goal has ever been a Will-o'-the-Wisp just ahead but never within grasp. Men have been prone to believe that there is no religious teaching that is satisfactory or dependable, and at last arrive at that place in their experience where they exclaim, "All is vanity and vexation of spirit" (Ecclesiastes 1-14). At this time they may be ready for Christian Science and when they understand it they can then declare, as did Job, "I know that my Redeemer liveth."

Mortal mind has within itself no saving grace. It suggests its own sense of happiness and pleasure; if man chooses to look to matter for satisfaction, he must accept all the suffering that accompanies this belief. Jesus' statement, "The flesh profiteth nothing," is identical with the statement of Science and Health in what is known as the Scientific Statement of Being, that "All is Infinite Mind and its infinite manifestation.' Christian Scientists have found that the teaching of their textbook does not vary one hairsbreadth from the teaching of the Bible.

THE DISCOVERER AND FOUNDER

Little more than fifty years ago there was just one Christian Scientist on earth, the Discoverer and founder of Christian Science, Mary Baker Eddy. She says, in "Retrospection and Introspection," that from her very childhood she was impelled by a hunger and thirst after divine things, a desire for something better than matter and apart from it. This spiritual desire made her always consecrated in thought and purpose to the endeavor to know and understand God.

Mrs. Eddy came of devotedly religious parents, and became a member of the Congregational Church when a very young girl, even though her confession of faith was not in accord with the strict and relentless theology of that day. She had discerned God as Love, and through this discernment lost her fear of the old Calvanistic decree of predestination. With maturing years came the conviction of the unreliable nature of all things material, and at last, she was left to die as the result of an injury supposed to be fatal. She then called for her Bible, and while reading of the cures wrought by Jesus realized that God was as able to heal then as in centuries past, and she immediately arose from her bed restored to health. Centuries of time had not annulled God's promises, and with her healing came the determination to know the science or truth of that which had wrought such a change in her life. She devoted years to the research; and at last, in the divine and natural order of events, in 1875, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" was given to the world. This experience is most comprehensively set forth in her book, "Retrospection and Introspection," a short biographical account of her own life. She writes of her great discovery. "My immediate recovery from the effects of an injury caused by an accident, an injury that neither medicine nor surgery could reach, was the falling apple that led me to the discovery how to be well myself, and how to make others so. . . . I then withdrew from society about three years,—to ponder my mission, to search the Scriptures, to find the Science of Mind that should take the things of God and show them to the creature, and reveal the great curative Principle,—Deity.

"The Bible was my textbook. It answered my questions as to how I was healed; but the Scriptures had to me a new meaning, a new tongue. Their spiritual signification appeared; and I apprehended for the first time, in their spiritual meaning, Jesus' teaching and demonstration, and the Principle and rule of spiritual Science and metaphysical healing,—in a word, Christian Science.

"I named it Christian, because it is compassionate, helpful, and spiritual. God I called immortal Mind. That which sins, suffers, and dies, I named mortal mind. The physical senses, or sensuous nature, I called error and shadow. Soul I denominated substance, because soul alone is truly substantial. God I characterized as individual entity, but His corporeality I denied. The real I claimed as eternal; and its antipodes, or the temporal, I described as unreal. Spirit I called the reality; and matter, the unreality."

Not one statement of science and Health is presented as hypothesis or as theory of human opinion, but every statement issues from the standpoint of demonstration and proof. From Plato, the pagan philosopher, to the more advanced thought of Emerson includes centuries of time, but only here and there is there a gleam of light. No human philosophy or theory has ever solved the problem of life demonstrably, as no human theory can solve the belief of evil and matter, from which belief issues all sin, disease, and death; only the teachings of Jesus, the master metaphysician, made clear to-day through Science and Health, are equal to so great a demand. Mrs. Eddy says of Jesus that he, "Was the most scientific man that ever trod the globe. He plunged beneath the material surface of things and found the spiritual cause." Because Mrs. Eddy "plunged beneath the material surface," she has revealed to this age the same available Christ, Truth, which heals and saves. She proved to be a most consecrated follower of Christ Jesus and claimed nothing more for herself. Throughout all time, here and there, men and women of uplifted thought have been able to heal through faith, but they had no knowledge of divine law or of the process by which healing might be accomplished for all. Their experiences were fragmentary and not the result of a knowledge of Principle. It is no miracle to accomplish results when one is shown the way through a scientific rule and its application, but the great miracle was this, that in a world of abject materialism, a woman appeared, who, through steadfast faith in God and a desire to know his will in order to help mankind, was able to peer back through the centuries of error, ignorance, and darkness and perceive again the Christ idea. This was the miracle, and yet it was the inevitable action of Truth. In Science and Health, Mrs. Eddy has set forth a scientific system with definite rules for practice, which will enable any sincere seeker to prove the truth of her revelation. In the early years of her ministry, with sublime patience and courage, she waited, worked, and prayed, until she gained a handful of students to assist her in raising the standard of Christian Science on earth. To-day Christian Science is known throughout the whole world; in many villages and remote places there is a Society or Church organization and most of the larger cities have many overflowing churches. Mrs. Eddy also established the Christian Science Journal and the Christian Science Sentinel, monthly and weekly publications invaluable to students of Christian Science. Later she founded the great international daily called "The Christian Science Monitor," a newspaper circulated and read throughout the world and generally acknowledged as entirely reliable in its statements. She also founded and directed many other activities in connection with the Church, which were designed to be, and always will be of great benefit to humanity. Is not this a great accomplishment for one lone woman?

Humanity has slowly outgrown its ancient beliefs and its many false gods, while history shows that woman has but slowly arisen from a state of captivity and bondage. It is this ancient belief that has been the basis of any opposition there has been to Mrs. Eddy's leadership. She has ever been the great friend of woman and through her teachings many of us have been given strength and courage to meet the problems of life successfully. She has revealed the way of deliverance for woman in the way of salvation for all mankind. Christian Science has made better men and women and it has elevated womanhood as it has purified manhood by giving a nobler citizenship to the world.

It would be strange indeed if Christian Scientists did not love and revere Mrs. Eddy for her unselfish devotion and commemorate her great works for the blessings that they individually feel have been their portion as the result of her consecrated life work. She never encouraged the slightest personal adulation but always turned her followers to the worship of God, away from personality to Principle. Humanity will sometime realize that it can never repay its debt of gratitude to Mrs. Eddy, the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science.

CHURCH

The Christian Science Church founded by Mrs. Eddy stands for pure democracy, the brotherhood of man, universal participation, growth, and true culture, where each individual has his place in Divine Mind and cannot usurp the place or rights of another. The true understanding of God reveals the true brotherhood of man. Knowledge of God is true education and only as the spiritual sense is gained through the study of the letter, can the truth be demonstrated; to have merely an intellectual sense of Christian Science without the spiritual perception of its teaching, is to lose its real import and be barren of fruits. "The letter and the spirit must both bear witness and then signs follow."

The world travailing in anguish and sorrow has great need of the Comforter to-day, but the great convulsing problems can only be settled ultimately through the understanding of Principle. Millions of men were taken from happy homes, from useful occupations, and from honorable citizenship to fight the battle of Principle against the lawless warfare of autocracy. They went forth with the vision of true democracy before them, and this ideal has won the victory over evil. Christian Scientists knew that an enduring peace can come through the victory of Truth over error only. They regret the fact that the world was not ready for progress without war, but they knew that to pacify or to compromise with error does not bring peace. As we looked out upon the world's conflict and beheld the phenomena of destructive evil, we were not dismayed nor discouraged. We knew that the battle of Principle was being fought, that Divine Mind governs the universe and that the earth is to be transformed. The progress of individuals as well as that of nations, is according to their concept of Diety, and the universal understanding of God will end all strife and warfare and bring a permanent peace. Christian Scientists believe that time will be when "all shall know Him from the least unto the greatest" and God's love shall be manifested among men.

Large Portion of Realty Convention Delegates Will Arrive in Own Autos

Arrangements are being made to transport over 100 motor cars to Victoria from the mainland when the Interstate Realty Convention meets in this city on July 17, 18 and 19. Automobiles will figure largely in the programme of events that will take place in honor of the visitors.

The Island Automobile Association is extending every facility possible to make the affair a success, and the Association has undertaken to assume full charge of the tours. It is believed that the realty men and their friends will be treated to the best programme of tours ever carried out on Vancouver Island.

Judges for what is known as the "Five Million" cup contest have been named as follows: Hon. Dr. MacLean, Minister of Education and Provincial Secretary; General Leckie and Miss Helen Stewart. In this contest each delegate will be given five minutes in which to boost his home town, and the delegate making the best speech will receive the cup.

The addresses of welcome will be made on behalf of the Provincial Government by Hon. John Oliver, Premier of British Columbia; on behalf of the city by Mayor Porter and on behalf of the Victoria Real Estate Exchange, by C. T. Cross, its president.

During the convention a visit will be paid to the beautiful sunken gardens at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Butchart. A garden party has been arranged at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Pemberton. The Athletic and Swimming Clubs are preparing a big fete for Saturday, August 19, when the Northwestern Championship events will be held at the Gorge. That evening an open air concert will be held in front of the Parliament Buildings, and, if possible, the buildings will be illuminated.

RAIN HELPS CROPS

Strawberry Districts Greatly Benefited; Crops Generally Are Good.

The rainfall of the last two days has proved of great benefit to the strawberry crops in Gordon Head and other berry growing districts, and though picking has been held up somewhat on account of the rain, the addition which it will bring to the output makes it extremely valuable at this time.

Growers are highly delighted with the weather conditions this season, and they report that rain at this stage is very welcome. All kinds of crops have participated in the advantage of the rainfall, including the local garden plots.

BOARD TO DISCUSS IMPORTANT MATTERS

Urgent Transportation Problems Will Be Dealt With at Meeting To-morrow

Transportation matters of urgent importance to Victoria will be discussed at a joint meeting of the Trades, Commerce and Transportation Committee and the Navigation Committee of the Board of Trade to be held to-morrow afternoon. As the direct outcome of the meeting it is expected that a number of recommendations will be forwarded to both the Provincial Government and the Dominion Government advocating immediate action.

One of the most pertinent matters will be the resumption of service on the Victoria and Sidney line. Numerous efforts have been made to have this connection maintained, but so far all have failed. The Sidney Board of Trade has been unable to obtain a solution of the matter, and the local board has lent assistance and proposed to carry on an agitation until the people of the peninsula are assisted in some manner or another.

Another important matter will be the discussion of the location for the proposed trans-Pacific wireless station. It is the intention to have a high-powered station established on the British Columbia coast, which will be capable of communicating with Japan. At present the coast stations are not powerful enough to conduct this business, although they are able to receive messages from great distances under good atmospheric conditions.

The matters of combining the Victoria, Vancouver and Nanaimo pilotages will be discussed. Representatives of various steamship companies will attend and give their views in connection with the proposal.

Discussion will be heard on the need of further aids to navigation in Northern British Columbia and Alaskan waters. Statements have been made lately that these waters are not adequately lighted and the Board of Trade has decided to investigate the matter. The necessity of establishing a fog alarm on Shoal Point, Victoria Harbor, will also be brought before the meeting.

An effort will be made to have the Grand Trunk Pacific steamers make the return trip to Victoria from Seattle on Sunday nights. For some time past the company has omitted Victoria on the trip north and as there is no steamer connection between here and the Sound on Sunday nights the business men of this city, as well as Seattle, are anxious to have the former connection renewed and pressure will be brought to bear on the G. T. P.

The question of making Victoria a free port will also be fully discussed.

He was given first aid by Mrs. Miller at the Goldstream Hotel, and on reaching the city was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital for further attention to his wounds.

Gave Enjoyable Band Concert.—A large crowd gathered in Beacon Hill Park yesterday afternoon for the band concert given by the Foundation Band under the leadership of Professor Lou Turner and showed appreciation of the tuneful numbers by warm and sustained applause. The programme was varied and of a high standard throughout, eliciting a regret that the series of concerts is of but limited duration. The occasion was slightly marred by showers towards the end of the programme but in spite of the slight inconvenience a good-sized audience waited until the last note of the National Anthem had died away before departing from the scene.

Successful Sale at James Bay.—Over one hundred dollars was realized by the successful sale of work held at the Connaught Seamen's Institute on Saturday afternoon, under the auspices of the W. A. were as follows: Needlework, in charge of Mesdames Fatt and Marlew; home cooking, Mesdames Pennell and Broadbent; fishpand, Mrs. and Miss Sellers. The St. Agnes' Guild stall of candies and fancy work was under the supervision of Miss Pennell and Miss Croft. The children of the Junior W. A. under the direction of Miss Martlew had a stall of their own of ice cream and fancy work. Afternoon tea was served by Mesdames Robinson, Marchant and Harrison. In the evening a concert was held, the following artists contributing to the programme: Mrs. Martlew, Jr., Mrs. Attwell, Mr. and Mrs. Povah, Miss J. Martlew, Sergt. Ingledew, Miss Lily Dooley and Mr. Dumbleton.

IRRITABLE NERVES RESTORED AND HEALTH REGAINED IN A SIMPLE WAY

The man or woman who is run-down, not feeling up to the mark, perhaps irritable, nervous or sleepless can well afford to learn about the wonderful results the newly discovered blood-food is giving to folks that use it.

There is wonderful power in this new blood-food, and every weak, pallid person can be quickly nourished back to health that uses it as directed.

After each meal, with a sip or two of water, you simply take two little chocolate-coated tablets, sold in all drug stores under the name of "FERROZONE."

The effect is noticeable at once. You feel happier, brighter, more contented. That old-time feeling of weariness departs—you forget your "nerves" and no longer get irritable or cross over trifling annoyances.

There is a reason for this change and that reason consists of the fact that Ferrozone contains blood-making materials you can get in no other way.

Ferrozone makes the blood tingle and sing with new vitality. This ensures lots of nourishment and strength being supplied to every part of the body.

No wonder the eyes brighten and the cheeks radiate color and happiness. With abundance of strength, a keen appetite, good digestion and plenty of sound sleep—all the result of Ferrozone—you quickly feel as if life held new charms and pleasures

ARRANGE RECEPTION FOR 58TH BATTERY

Artillery Boys to Provide Hearty Welcome; Will Hold Reunion Dinner Later

Arrangements were made at a meeting of the 15th Brigade, C. F. A., on Saturday night to provide a royal welcome for the 58th Battery, which is expected to arrive home at the end of the week. The boys decided to turn out in full strength to receive the survivors of the 62nd Battery and 15th Brigade Ammunition Column, both of which were merged into the 58th Battery, when they step off the Vancouver boat and at a later date to hold a re-union dinner.

Arrangements will be made to have a band present, and the addresses of welcome will be delivered from the steps of the C. P. R. offices. The boys will not march through the town, but will board motor cars at the docks and form into a parade column and proceed in this manner to the Willows, where they will be discharged.

The reception to the 58th Battery promises to be one of the most enthusiastic attended any returned unit. The 62nd Battery and ammunition Column, which left here in May, 1916, contained a larger percentage of native sons than any other units that left this city. Out of the 500 that sailed away on that bright Sunday afternoon only 78 are returning.

The committee appointed to complete all arrangements for the reception is as follows: J. H. Gillespie, chairman; John Helmcken, Fred Fleury, Gordon Cameron and Archie Wills.

It is expected that the re-union dinner will be held about a week after the boys return. At this gathering an association will in all probability be formed.

GUM DECAY CAUSES TOOTH DECAY

Healthy teeth need healthy gums to hug them. Else they will loosen in Pyorrhea. Tiny openings will come in the gums to act as the gateways of disease germs, which infect the joints or tonsils, or cause other ailments.

Forhan's prevents Pyorrhea, if used in time and used consistently. No mere toothpaste does. Are your gums tender gums? Are they bleeding gums? If so, you are certain to have Pyorrhea (Riggs' Disease). Four out of five people who are over forty have it.

To you we earnestly recommend Forhan's. It preserves the gums which hold the teeth secure.

Brush your teeth with it. Forhan's cleans the teeth scientifically—keeps them white and clean.

If gum-shrinkage has already set in, start using Forhan's and consult a dentist immediately for special treatment.

Dollar Day a Success.—Local merchants report the transaction of considerable business in the stores for Saturday's Dollar Day. MUSICAL DISTINCTION

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Waddington's Children Secure Fame in Festivals.

Local friends of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Waddington, of Lethbridge, will be interested to learn that their small son and daughter have achieved notable distinction at the Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba joint musical festival held recently. Master Geoffrey Waddington was awarded the coveted gold medal for violin-playing, while little Eileen Waddington received the silver medal for pianoforte. The examiners were eminent musicians from Chicago and New York. During the family's long sojourn in this city last year, Victorians were afforded the privilege of hearing these clever child-musicians on numerous occasions, and the news of their success will occasion much pleasure in local musical circles.

SAFE.

On the occasion of a slight fire and much smoke behind the curtain, a vaudeville manager was trying, unsuccessfully, by suave, assuring statements to quell an incipient panic in the audience. A leading comedian rushed out, and, pointing a finger of scorn at the manager, appealed to the audience thus:

"Sure, do you think he would be such a fool as to stop here if there were any danger?"

FOUNDATION MEN LEADING IN RACE FOR THE MANN CUP

Swamped New Westminster Team and Won by 12 Goal to Six Saturday

The shipbuilding stickhandlers representing Victoria in the Mann Cup race, with the benches at Royal Athletic Park lined with lacrosse fans, hung up another victory in the amateur series Saturday by doubling the six counters recorded by the New Westminster boys. For a time in the first period the visiting players looked like a winning team, but before the breathing spell, the home players had evened up the score and then set the pace for the rest of the game.

Westminster Leading.

Oddy found the net for the first goal of the game four minutes after the whistle blew, but New Westminster had only held the lead for one minute when McInness picked the ball out from a melee around Sangster's dugout and banged the pill into the hemp.

Blanketted Storme.

Storme took advantage of the only period of the game when he did not have someone trailing him like a Siamese twin anad showed that he is as dangerous as ever. He put his side ahead with a great underswing shot that gave Jake Davis no chance at all, and three minutes later followed it with another fine shot. Feedham followed his example by finding the net twice in succession and tieing up the score again before the first period ended.

Six Penitents.

Boss Johnson showed right from the outset that it was to be a clean game and had six players warming the benches at one time during the first stanza. Except for one or two little outbursts, the players confined themselves to lacrosse for the remainder of the game.

The Sidney Giant.

With the game starting even in the second period, big Monroe the towering coverpoint hung on Storme, the sharpshooter of the visiting team, like a leach. Wherever Storme went Monroe followed and the Westminster outside home man had few opportunities. He managed, however, to break through for one more goal before the final whistle blew. After the home team had added three more goals to their total, Pentland got through for one more tally for New Westminster and then Painter made seven to four before the interval.

Twice more the shipbuilders found the net in the third stanza and Jake Davis did not let a thing past him. Although the Westminster boys were plainly tiring more than the home men in the last spell, they hung up another couple and the Foundation improved their lead by taking their total to an even dozen.

Painter's Busy Day.

It was Painter's day out, and although the visitors had him marked soon after the game started Joe found the net for four of the tallies. Feedham and Mitchell got three each and Pentland and McInnes shared the other two goals.

THE PRO SERIES.

New Westminster, B. C., June 21.—The New Westminster lacrosse team defeated the Vancouver Terminals here to-day in the third game of the 1919 championship series.

The game was started when Lieut. G. K. Trim, of the Royal Air Force, dropped a ball into the centre of the oval from his swooping plane, in which he performed sensational flying stunts.

JAMES BAY OARSMEN HAD GOOD WORK OUTS

The Big Four No. 2 in Readiness For Dominion Day Gala

The J. B. A. A. oarsmen had a splendid workout Saturday in anticipation of their struggle with Vancouver at the Gorge on Dominion Day. The "Big Four" No. 3, with J. A. Wickson, the former Argonaut and Winnipeg man, stroke, went out at a fast clip, and Dan O'Sullivan and Matt Scott in a double, gave them a number of practice starts. The seniors rowed over the course, and returned to the club float, closely followed by O'Sullivan and Scott. A change was then made temporarily in the personnel of the four, Wickson going to No. 2, while Travis stood out. Dan O'Sullivan took the stroke oar, and showed the boys the stroke that made his "Big Four" No. 1 famous all over the coast.

Altogether, the practice was most satisfactory, and with plenty of hard work, and the benefit of the experience of two such oarsmen as Dan O'Sullivan and J. A. Wickson, the J. B. A. A. representatives should line up against Vancouver on July 1 fit to row for the honors of the club.

LIPTON WRITES OF VISIT TO THE COAST

Famous British Yachtsman Hopes to Make Another Trip West

Victoria yachtsmen may get another opportunity of inviting Sir Thomas Lipton to the city, according to recent information received from the famous British sportsman. Sir Thomas has stated that he intends paying another visit to the Pacific Coast, and Seattle is to be included in the itinerary. Last time Sir Thomas was at Seattle in 1915 local yachtsmen made a strenuous effort to bring him to Victoria, but a prior engagement in San Francisco prevented him from making the trip. In this letter he states that it had been his intention to visit Seattle during his present stay in the United States, but that he had been detained so long in New York that it would be impossible to take the trip to the West Coast this time, as he was forced to sail for England on the 29th. On his return to this country, however, which he hopes will be before very long, he is looking forward to visiting Seattle and renewing the many pleasant acquaintances which he made in 1914.

Sir Thomas has been in New York perfecting arrangements for the race for the America cup. He challenged for a race for this cup just before the war and sent his yacht over here, but shortly after his arrival war broke out between England and Germany, and the race was cancelled. During the war Sir Thomas gave his own services and those of his yachts to the Government, and rendered signal service to his home country. Now that the war is over, he has renewed his challenge and will make one more effort to win the cup that he has tried so many times to wrest from the American holders without avail.

FOUNDATION AMATEURS PRACTICE TO-MORROW

Secretary Bradford, of the Foundation Club, announces that a practice game of the Foundation cricketers will be held to-morrow afternoon at the Willows at 3 o'clock, and the Foundation amateurs are particularly requested to be in attendance. Match play will take place. Mr. Bradford is endeavoring to arrange for the Payne Cup game with the Foundation Amateurs and the Congregational Wednesday to take place Wednesday afternoon, in view of the fact that the shipyard workers are idle on account of the strike.

TOO MUCH OF A SUCCESS.

"What's the matter, old man?" asked Driver as he met his friend, "are you feeling seedy?"

"No, not exactly that," replied the friend, "but I'll admit I've been worried of late. You remember I hired a man to trace my pedigree?"

"Yes," replied Driver, "what's the trouble, hasn't he been successful?"

"Successful, I should say he has," said his friend, "I'm having to pay him hush money."—Harper's Magazine.

STARS HAVE ENTERED IN TENNIS TOURNEY

Event on Victoria Club's Courts Promised to Be Most Successful

The annual handicap tournament of the Victoria Lawn Tennis Club will commence this evening at 5.30. All competitors are requested to be on the courts ready to play at that hour. The committee has found it impossible to set the hour for the various matches for to-day's play, but as many as possible will be played. For the remainder of the tournament when the hour is set players must be ready to play. In the case of players failing to appear within fifteen minutes after the hour, the committee has no recourse but to default the match.

Four decisive wins were recorded in greatest defeat of the day being handed out by the Foundation Wanderers to Saturday's league cricket games, the Christ Church eleven at Oak Bay. In one innings the Wanderers equalled the total made by the Cathedral teams in two frames, and then lost one wicket in the second innings in overtaking the total. The other Cathedral team, the Five C's, sustained the reputation of the Cathedral players by beating the Congos by 123 runs. The winning streak of the Victoria Club was maintained, the Albions going under by 70 runs. The Incogs batted strongly Saturday, compiling 135 runs, 48 runs too many for the Foundation Ramblers.

"British woolens have no equal in the world.

"The Semi-ready English headquarters are situate in the heart of the Yorkshire weaving district—where the unit of production is greater than in any other country.

"Our English manufacturers are modest—they don't boast or indulge in swank—

"But they can show their coattails to the world when it comes to sterling quality in their products.

"One Toronto Editor, when his political party died a sudden death, sought to get from under by preaching free trade and tariff reform—and argued that the Britishers' unit of labor was not equal to that of Canada.

"The Englishman doesn't talk back—not even when another Hun called his fighting arm 'contemptible.' He just goes right along—and gets there."

FIFTH REGIMENT SHOOT

The Fifth Regiment C. G. A. Rifle Association held their usual weekly spoon shoot at Clover Point Saturday afternoon. The conditions were very good for high scoring, there being an absence of tricky winds and bad light. Lieut. S. H. de Carteret topped the list with the splendid score of 102, just dropping three points in twenty-one rounds and also making a possible at the 200 yards range, thereby winning a range spoon beside the one for the total score. BOY SCOUT NEWS

Headquarters Notes.

Assistant Provincial Commissioner, the Hon T. R. Heneage, has been making an inspection of the local scout troops. Last Monday, he paid his first visit to the St. James Church troop, on Tuesday, visited the St. John's Church troop, on Wednesday afternoon inspected the Victoria Preparatory School troop, and on Friday the Third troop. It is expected that the McLean troop, and the Collegiate School will be visited this week.

A meeting of scout officers was held at Provincial Headquarters, Central Building, on Thursday evening, with Colonel J. A. Hall, Provincial Commissioner in the chair. Owing to the small attendance, very little business was done, and it is planned to hold another meeting shortly, when it is hoped that all scout officers will be present.

A supply of the new Canadian Handbook is expected shortly. These books will fill a long felt want, and will prove a great help to scout officers and leaders.

The organizing office of the local association is open from 3.30 until 4.30 p. m. each day. Information about the movement will be gladly furnished. It is expected that Lt. Legge-Willis the organizing secretary will be back at work again shortly.

St. James Church Troop.

The troop was inspected by Assistant Commissioner Heneage last Monday, who told the boys not to be discouraged because they were not a large troop, but to stick to it, and become good scouts, and the day would come when instead of them asking a boy if he would join, the boys would come begging to be allowed to join.

The troop has a lot of work on hand which it is hoped to finish next week, so that the way will be clear to discuss plans for the summer's work, and commence the "stunt" discussed last Thursday, and on which a committee is working.

McLean Troop.

Signalling, and the enrollment of a new recruit was the programme last Tuesday, after which some tug-of-war practice took place. It is expected that Mr. Heneage, Provincial Commisioner, will visit the troop next Tuesday. The troop keenly regret the departure of their popular Assistant Scoutmaster, Mr. Dillingham, who is going to Regina.

ISLAND CLUB STAGED INTERESTING BOUTS

Every Event on Crystal Theatre Card Was Hotly Contested

Every event on the V. I. A. A. fight programme at the Crystal Theatre Saturday night was full of interest, and those who were afraid that the withdrawal of the Up-Island entries would in any way mar the success of the tournament had a pleasant surprise. Every fight was well contested and the fans had a regular feast all the way through.

The Main Bout.

The main bout between Sneddon and Baker provided all that was promised. The two old rivals fought every minute of the go. Sneddon has made a bigger improvement in his boxing since he went overseas than Baker and has an aggressive style that helps him considerably. Baker put up a good fight but his opponent had slightly the edge of the three rounds, and obtained the decision.

Thompson Improved.

Herbert Thompson showed he has improved a lot since his last appearance in the ring and after three hard rounds with Jack Andros an extra round was necessary before a decision was reached. Both men received a lot of punishment and at the end of the fourth round Thompson put a crimp in Andros's string of victories.

On A Foul.

Cecil Hartley, of the V. I. A. A., won from D. Morgan, of Ladysmith, on a foul in the first round. It was one of the best bouts of the evening. In the first round Morgan put in a low one which doubled up Hartley and he had to be taken to his corner. He came back for the course and both men closed in, indulging in a lot of slugging. It was a gruelling contest and there was little to choose between the two men.

Another For Sneddon.

Sneddon obtained another victory at the expense of Teddy Ford and Matthews upheld his claim to the title of King of the Newsboys class by beating Dave Burnett in the final after already having beaten Hugh Burnett. Burnett hurt his shoulder in the second round and was unable to continue. Dave Burnett beat Jack Moore and Matthews also handed out a defeat to Woods.

Harold Lineham upheld his reputation by beating Jessup in each of three rounds, although Jessup made more trouble for Lineham than he has had for a long time.

The Dustweights.

Albie and Jumbo Davies were out to fight for a decision, Jumbo having challenged his elder brother's claim to the dustweight championship. Jumbo stepped out recklessly in an attempt to wrest the honors from his brother and made more trouble for Albie than he has ever done before. At the end of the bout a draw was announced.

The judges were Major Geo. Nicholson and L. D. McLean; referees, Scotty McKay and Harry Boyd.

Alex. Chisholm, a West Toronto businessman who has been purchasing agent for the National Council, Y. M. C. A., in Canada during the war, will give up this work on July 1.

GRISWOLD KING OF NORTHWEST GOLFERS

Defeated Clark Speirs For Title in Thirty-two Hole Match

Spokane, June 22.—Clare Griswold, of the Jefferson Park Golf Club, of Seattle, is the new king of Northwest golfers. Griswold established his right to the amateur championship yesterday when he defeated Clark Speirs, his clubmate, two up in the final thirty-two hole final match for the title.

Women's Championship.

Mrs. E. B. Curran, of Tacoma, yesterday won the women's championship when she defeated Mrs. Maude B. Kegley, of Los Angeles, three up and two to play, in the finals at the Spokane Country Club.

Spiers Fights Hard.

The youthful opponent of the new champion proved a worthy contender for the big honors. After getting off to a poor start, Speirs braced at the end of the first nine holes and cut down Griswold's five-hole lead to two. Griswold led at the twenty-seventh hole by three, and while he dropped one hole before the decisive green, he cinched the honors on the thirty-fifth hole.

His First Victory.

Griswold has been a strong contender for the title for the past three years, but this is his first victory.

Neither of the women's finalists showed the form yesterday that they displayed in the earlier matches, both showing an inclination to wildness in tee shots. At the end of the first nine holes Mrs. Kegley was two up on Mrs. Curran, but on the upper nine the Tacoma woman exhibited a superior brand of golf.

Dr. J. E. Drake, Spokane, won the second men's flight from Raymond Welch, Spokane, five up and three to play.

Verne Winters, Spokane, won the third flight from F. W. Crowder, Vancouver, two up and one to play. W. B. Roberts, Spokane, won the fourth flight from P. P. Powell, Spokane, six up and five to play.

Mrs. Charles Hebberd, Spokane, won the first women's flight from Mrs. E. M. Mathewson, Everett, two up and one to play. Mrs. C. O. Staples, of British Columbia, won the fourth flight from Mrs. Frank Allen, of Spokane, by default.

The Battle of 1918

Written by General Debeney for The New York Times.

It is most important that the event which took place in 1918 should be realized.

As a matter of fact, many people do not understand the sequence of events and are surprised that the war should have ended so suddenly. True to historical tradition, they were always expecting the decisive battle which, named after a town or village, would immortalize the German defeat. They wanted an Austerlitz or Jena, a Solferino or Sedan. They do not realize that these battles, which bear such great names, were fought on a six, seven, or at the very most a twenty kilometer front. Only 100,000 or 200,000 or 300,000 men were engaged in the most important of these battles, which lasted one or two days at the longest.

Now our battle extended from the sea to the Moselle, on a 400 kilometer front, and 6,000,000 men were employed in it. Little wonder, therefore, that it lasted seven and one-half months.

This, however, did not prevent it from being one single battle. The French, British, American, and Belgian armies fought incessantly under a common leader. They formed one huge army, which fought and won this unique and gigantic battle, thereby obtaining the most brilliant victory in history.

The battle of 1918 began on March 21 and may be divided into three phases.

Until the middle of July—that is to say, during four months—the Germans took the offensive and obtained undeniable successes, which were, however, always checked and localized after a short time.

On July 18 the situation was reversed. The great allied offensive began on the left bank of the Oise carried out by two French armies. The battle on the right bank was conducted by two other French armies and two British armies. In less than two months the Germans were everywhere compelled to retire to the famous Hindenburg line, from which they had started four months before.

At this moment the German attack may be said to have failed, their men having been driven back to their former positions at the point of the bayonet. The worst that even pessimists could say was that the battle was a draw.

But it was only the second phase; the third was about to begin.

At the Hindenburg Line.

It is well known that for three years the Hindenburg line, which the Germans called "Siegfried," had been the real line of demarkation between the latter and the Allies. The Germans regarded it as impregnable, and behind this bulwark, organized and reinforced daily, they had accumulated ammunition, constructed defences, and brought up a formidable amount of material. In fact, they had stripped Germany of all its war equipment in order to pile it up in France and Belgium in the sure protection of the Hindenburg line.

On September 26 the Allies attacked the Hindenburg line at different points—the American army and a French army in Champagne, a French army and three British armies in the Saint Quentin-Cambrai zone.

After eight days of terrible fighting the Allies succeeded in breaking through the famous lines, shattering them at every point.

The German morale suddenly collapsed, and on October 4 Ludendorff, the Commander in Chief, askeed his Government to beg for an armistice.

It was too late, as the Allies were progressing fast. Along the whole front, from Escaut to the Meuse, their armies were engaged in widening the gaps, creating fresh ones and precipitating the German retreat. In Belgium a French army, a British army, and the Belgian army were occupying positions in the line, thus extending the battlefield as far as the sea, at a moment when the Germans were already lacking in reserves to defend the vital sectors which were most threatened.

Everything gave way before this formidable advance; successive lines fell back within a few days; artillery fire gradually diminished, and on November 6 the pursuit became general, whole trains being captured in the Meuse Valley, at Hirson, in Belgium, everywhere.

It was a real victory, a complet victory, one beyond all expectations. Since the commencement of the offensive the Allies had taken about 400,00 prisoners and over 6,000 guns.

Victory and Capitulation.

But there is something better still; something better than victory. There is capitulation. That, too, was to come.

On November 7 the German plenipotentiaries succeeded, after many difficulties, in crossing the French line extended in pursuit of the enemy; on the eighth they presented themselves before their conquercr, Marshal Foch, and on November 11 they hastily signed the acknowledgemeentt of the greatest defeat known to history.

Strictly speaking, the armistice of November 11, 1918, is not an armistice. It has only been a question of a suspension of hostilities; the Germany army has been compelled to lay down its arms without any possibility of fighting again. Such is the capitulation of November 11.

The Germans have surrendered their guns, their aircraft, their prisoners of war, their means of transport. They have surrendered their fortresses—Metz, Strasbourg, Cologne, Coblenz, Mayence; they have surrendered their fleet, and, finally, their territory—the entire left bank of the Rhine. Moreover, by abandoning three bridgeheads which guarantee the passage of the Rhine they have opened the road to their military arsenal—Essen—and to their capital.

What is the capitulation of Sedan, where the defeated army numbered only 80,000 men, and after which fighting was again resumed for six months, compared to this debacle?

The capitulation of November 11 is the most terrible disaster that an army has ever suffered.

Such was the battle of 1918, such the victory won by the allied flags.

Officers should explain to their men the absolutely modern character of the unique battle which they have won. They should look beyond their own special sphere and prove the magnificent results of the efforts made by each regiment in its particular zone.

Our men know that they have performed their duty well.

They have seen the enemy withdraw before them; they know that they have freed their native country and redeemed their captive brethren in Alsace-Lorraine.

They must try to thoroughly realize the truth. They have won the greatest battle of history. Theirs is the victory.

Heart Palpitated
Could Count Every Beat

When the heart begins to palpitate, it will beat fast for several seconds, the slow, then start to flutter, and a feeling of utter depression will come over your whole system, accompanied by weak, fainting and dizzy spells.

When the heart gets into this condition, you become weak, worn and miserable, and are unable to attend to either social, business or household duties.

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills will give prompt and permanent relief to all sufferers from any heart weakness or nerve derangements.

Mrs. Walter Greives, Apsley, Ont., writes: "I had been run down, and doctors told me I was anaemic, but did not help me with their medicines. I could not sleep nights, my heart palpitated so, and I could count every beat. I used to have such dizzy spells I would have to go to bed. I was not able to do any work for eight months. A cousin of mine had taken Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills and told me what they had done for her. I took eight boxes of them, and now I am able to help every day with the work. I am so thankful to tell others what they have done for me, so that they may try this great and wonderful remedy. I hope this may prove good to some one who is suffering the way I did."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c. a box at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

STIRRING SCENES IN FILM AT ROYAL

"The Whip" Contains Thrilling Picture of Train Wreck

"The Whip" heralded as the biggest of all motion picture plays will open an engagement of one week at the Royal Victoria commencing to-night. This wonderful picture with its hair-raising scenes is undisputed as the most remarkable photoplay ever presented to the public. Ine one of the many thrilling scenes two fast express trains are shown running at a tremendous speed, the rear car is detached from the first train directly in the path of a following express. The latter crashes into the car, and is shattered into mass of ruins, litup by lurid flames and shrouded in a cloud of steam from a burst boiler of the locomotive. The purpose of the wrecker to work injury to the great race-horse, "The Whip," and to prevent her from entering the Saratoga handicap, frustated through the appearance of a rescue party who remove "The Whip" from the car just before the crash. This stirring incident is merely one of the many that make "The Whip" stand out and eclipse all its predecessors.

BILLY OSWALD'S FOLLIES APPEAR TWICE DAILY

Billy Oswald and his 1919 Follies will present twice daily during the coming week at 3 and 8 p. m. their first special programme entitled, "In Society." This should prove a very popular attraction as this is the first special programme that this company has produced and appropriate have been secured for same.

EVER POPULAR STORY NOW APPEARING HERE

Alice Joyce at Variety in "Lion and the Mouse."

A cleveer girl wielding only a trenchant pen, breaks the will of the most pewerful financial genius in the world, saves her own father from unmerited disgrace and wins his only son for herself, in "The Lion and the Mouse," the Vitagraph super-feature which will be shown at the Variety to-day. Alice Joyce has the featured role of Shirley Rossmore in this screen adaption of the famous stage success of the same name, written by the late Charles Klien.

The picture was produced under the personal supervision of Albert E. Smith, president of Vitagraph, and was directed at Vitagraph's Brooklyn studio, under the direction of Tom Terris. In the supporting cast are Conrad Nagel, Anders Randolf, Henry Hallam, T. W. Carlton, Mona Kingsley, Jane Jennings, Templer Saxe, W. H. Burton, and Mary Carr.

Shirley's father is a Federal judge who issues a "ruinous" injunction against a railway, of which John Burkett Ryder is the head. He makes use of the fact that years before the judge had accepted from him 20,000 shares of mining stock, with the understanding they were a bonus given all original stockholders, to bring impeachment proceedings in the Senate against the judge.

In Ryder's private safe are letters from her father which prove his innocence, and the plot centres about the finally successful efforts of Shirley, through a novel she writes, to obtain access to the safe to get the letters and thus force Ryder to call off the impeachment trial. She is aided by Ryder's only son, who is in love with Shirley, but who is forbidden under threat of disinheritance even to communicate with her.

It is a story of tremendous appeal, this crushing of the fallacy that might, money might, makes right; and the story is convincingly told. There is strong love interest, for the girl in fighting to save her father being crushed by this octopus of millions, fights also for her own love, for she loves his son and he turns against his own father to help her. And the girl, by her cleverness and bravery, when she has brought the colossus to his knees, is rewarded not only by her father's vindication but by his wrathful demand that his son marry such a girl, for he had not known she was the daughter of the man he sought to crush in his tremendous battle for more than world-wide power.

DOMINION PRESENTS MARGUERITE CLARK

Popular Film Favorite Will Be Seen in "Three Men and a Girl"

Miss Clark plays the role of Sylvia Ashton, a dashing young woman who deserts the old man she has promised to wed in the midst of the wedding ceremony and flees into the country in "Three Men and a Girl," at the Dominion Theatre this week.

She finds refuge in the country home of her father, who had previously leased the property to a trio of woman haters, who had fled to the wildwood to escape the wiles of women. These men are Christopher Kent, a lawyer, Julius Vanneman, a violinist, and Dr. Henry Forsyth. It happens that the first is being pursued by a woman, while the other two members of the party had suffered cruel disappointments in love affairs.

Sylvia enters at a time when the trio is absent, and partakes of the supper which had been prepared for them. Then she finds refuge on a couch and falls asleep. She is soon discovered by the three woman haters, who indicate their diapleasure at the intrusion upon their privacy. Despite this opposition, Sylvia insists upon remaining, making her home in a neighboring house, and calls for her old nurse. She dubs Kent the "little bear," and gives the other grouches the names of "big and middle sized bears."

The Chester Outing picture, "Getting Gay With Neptune;" and the Christie comedy special, "Rowdy Ann," will be the added attractions.

IN DOUBT.

"How's your garden getting along?"

"If the green things coming up are flowers it's fine; if ther're weeds it's terrible."

FRANCIS X. BUSHMAN NOW AT COLUMBIA

"The Poor Rich Man" Will Appear For Three Days

"The Poor Rich Man" is the first production in which the popular co-stars, Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne will be seen on the screen since their marriage. This play, which will be shown at the Columbia to-day, beginning a three-day engagement, is a five-act romance of an up-to-date young couple.

Strangely enough, the last picture made by these stars for Metro before the news of their intended wedding was noised abroad was "A Pair of Cupids," a play written expressly for their use by Lieut. Luther Reed, U. S. A., who little expected that the title he gave his story was to prove such an apt one.

"Shoulder Arms," to be shown at the Columbia as a special added attraction, is a comedy cleverly intermingling laugh-provoking burlesque on trench life with deft touches of the drama and pathos of war.

Taking the ludicrous happenings in the life of the average doughboy as the embellishing action, the famous comedian has injected into the story of "Shoulder Arms" an occasional suggestion of the tragedy and grief of war in the devastated portions of Northern France. This makes an unusual combination in Chaplin comedy portrayal, and serves to heighten the effect of the humorous situations.

The story pictured in "Shoulder Arms" takes Charlie through all of the training experiences of a recruit, and then blows him into a first line trench, prepared for action with an armament by which he could be mistaken for a soldier, a cook, a chambermaid, a milkman, a valet or a plumber. This equipment constitutes his idea of what a doughboy should have and doesn't get. He is prepared for every exigency, from cooties and rats to the flooding of his dugout.

CLEVER GYMNASTS ARE AT PANTAGES

Sensational Feats Provide Headliner For Variety Programme

There is a very attractive bill of vaudeville offered at the Pantages this week. It very nearly runs the gamut of variety, "from soup to nuts." There is a sensational acrobatic presentation in the headline position and a very brilliant repertoire of music as a special added attraction. A pair of happy-go-lucky comedians spread happiness between the amusing offerings of a famous card manipulator and the harmony songs of three very pretty girls. To complete the bill and introduce a turn of particular delight to the youngsters is the presentation of the finest comedy circus on the stage, and to introduce the vaudeville numbers is the sixth chapter of a particularly entertaining motion picture serial. How is that for an alluring bill?

Cleverness, prettiness and gracefulness combine with the freshness of youth and daring to make the Teeter Septette a most effective troupe of athletes. These acrobats are about the best that appeared in this city. One of the big features of the programme is the Tandem Somersault, a feat that has hitherto been looked upon as impossible. The gyrations and almost unbelievable feats of tumbling offered by these athletes makes a stunning attraction of their turn.

The Olga Samaroff Trio are three musical artists who have only recently forsaken the concert stage for vaudeville, seeking recognition from a public which, it is said, is harder to please than any other of the theatre-going crowds of the universe. Until about a month ago these talented musicians were identifed with one of the greatest symphony orchestras and philharmonic societies of the continent.

Cook and Lorenz are a pair of bright comedians who make laughs aplenty out of their abundant supply of good, clean comedy and original patter, and the Three Harmony Girls, Misses Patten, Yantis and Rooney, will delight with vocal numbers.

Arthur Lloyd is a manipulator of cards; he boasts that he can produce anything from the ace of spades to a menu card at the solicitation of one of his auditors. He is widely known and is very popular with theatregoers.

Schepp's Circus, is a novel animal act in which dogs, monkeys and cats go through the entire routine of a two-ringed arena show, performing such stunts as high-diving, acrobatics, rope-walking and the like. This is a rare treat for children who will enjoy it immensely.

WILL BUILD DRYDOCK HERE, SAYS ALEXANDER

Master-mind Made Prediction at Royal Victoria Theatre Appearance

According to Alexander, the master-mind, the big graving dock will be constructed at Esquimalt by the Dominion Government. This information he gave out when answering a pertinent question in the Royal Victoria Theatre Friday night, but as to when the great work will be undertaken the scientist made no prediction.

During the course of answering numerous questions Alexander caught a query from a resident of Esquimalt who was anxious whether or not he should dispose of his property. Alexander told the man that he had been worrying a great deal over a Government proposal to build a drydock. He advised the man to hold on to the property as it would be valuable owing to the Government deciding to build a dock.

This is a most interesting prediction. So many reports have emanated from Ottawa that the Govergment would construct the dock at Esquimalt that people have become discouraged and only a definite announcement that actual fork will commence will stir their minds.

On his last visit here Alexander made a prediction as to when hostilities would cease and subsequent events proved this to be correct. Victorians hope that his prediction about the dock proves as accurate as his prophecy of the Armistice.

Margery Wilson, first introduced to the film lovers by Thomas H. Ince, has been selected by this producer to support Charles Ray in the photoplay he is just starting at the Ince Studio in Culver City. Miss Wilson supported Mr. Ray once before, in his "Clodhopper," which will be remembered with pleasure by many. She also supported William S. Hart in "Wolf Lowry." Then she was starred by Mr. Ince in her own right in "The Mother Instinct," "Wild Sumac," etc.

James H. McDermott, who was a star writer on one of the leading London newspapers some years ago, spent several days in Los Angeles with H. H. Van Loan, screen author. McDermott, who is now at work upon a novel, and Van Loan were old cronies in London while the latter was representing one of the American newspaper syndicates there. The Londoner is going to the South Seas for six months and while there will complete the writing of his book.

DEVICE TO ASSIST ELECTRIC LIGHTING

To Manufacture in Victoria Invention For Use in Illuminated Signs

Designed to remove to a very large extent the expense involved in the upkeep of flashing electric light signs, an invention has recently been patented in Canada and its Canadian rights have been purchased by Alderman Albion Johns and W. N. Mitchell of this city. The new company will manufacture the new device in Victoria before many months have passed, and arrangements to bring the necessary machinery here are being made.

Before the present invention appeared signs were flashed by an electric motor, the operation and upkeep of which was expensive. The new device does away with the motor, and operates with the same electricity which supplies the lights of the sign. The device consists of a stand surmounted by a small cylinder in which there is a plunger, and on the top of which is an electric magnet. When the plunger drops to the bottom of the cylinder by its own weight it comes in contact with an electric current and, becoming charged, is immediately attracted by the magnet above. It then shoots up and remains against the magnet until it has discharged all the current which it gained below. Its own weight then causes it to fall down again. This action causes a periodic connection between the wire which leads into the instrument and the wire which leads from it to the sign, and causes the lights to go on and off. The speed at which the lights flash is regulated by the amount of air that is allowed into the cylinder, and which naturally controls the speed at which the plunger operates. The invention is the result of an American's work and a company is planning to manufacture it in California.

It will be possible to apply the device for a single sign, or an extensive system of ornamental lighting.

FUN, SONG AND DANCE AT PRINCESS THEATRE

New Hincks Production, "The Pantomime Rehearsal," Scores Instant Success

"The Pantomime Rehearsal," which opened at the Princess Theatre on Saturday night is a delightfully clever skit on an amateur performance of a pantomime, supposedly "The Babes of the Wood," and when it is explained that the amateurs in question are the members of a country house party in England, each inspired with a yearning to "star," but without knowledge of even the rudiments of the art the humor of the many ludicrous situations can perhaps be better imangined than described. Suffice it to say that a crowded house on Saturday night laughed and applauded its way through the two clever acts, and helped launch on its successful way another of the many triumphs staged by that clever actor-producer, Reginald Hincks.

As Jack Deedes, the author of the pantomime, W. Taylor has a heavy part which he plays very convincingly. Harassed beyond measure by the fatuous suggestion of the blue-blooded actors and actresses who seek to introduce so-called improvements into the action of the pantomime, and driven to distraction by their nonchalant attitude at the rehearsal, he has to submit to the torture of seeing the product of his brain "murdered" by the aristocratic amateurs.

Charming Songs.

Mrs. D'Oyly Rochfort and Mrs. D. B. McConnan are alloted the roles of the babes in the wood and, incidentally, contribute a number of charming songs. Mrs. Rochfort scored a big personal success in her number, "In the Dark," with its tuneful yodelling chorus. Attired as a ragged newsboy for this number she was supported by a male chorus, and so popular was the song that the singer was recalled many times before the action of the play was permiteed to proceed. The many admirers of Mrs. D. B. McConnan welcomed her reappearance, and noted with pleasure the vast improvement in her voice, and her several numbers were warmly encored. As the Lady Muriel Beauclaire, Mrs. F. Bellby had a part eminently suited to her ability, and her arrogance, coupled with her helplessness in forgetting her lines, was provocative of much laughter.

Diverting Situations.

Messrs. Hincks and T. J. Goodlake shared the dual roles of demons and robbers and their various entrances and exits and apparent inability to seize the "atmosphere" of their respective parts proved most diverting. As Sir Charles Grandison, delegated to handle the scenic and limelight effects, but with a yearning to act, A. M. D. Fairbairn presented a ludicrous study. One of the funniest situations in the rehearsal was furnished by his suggestion that a bull-fight should be included in the action. Convinced that his inspiration would mean much to the play he called in the scene-shifter, armed him with billiard cue and red silk cummerbund and instructed him in the gentle art of being a matador, the bull being represented by R. N. Hincks, covered with a bearskin rug and wearing cricket pads to facilitate his progress on hands and knees.

Lieut. Webb gave a masterly study of the Cocney scene-shifter, Tomkins, and sang a number of breezy songs in excellent style, one of the most popular being "I Want to Go Home," in which he was supported by the chorus. As his wife, a virago of the man-hating type, J. McCallum created much amusement and sang a comic song, "Man," very effectively.

Interpolated Numbers.

The part of the Hon. James Russell-Portman furnished Horace Potts with opportunity to sing two songs, Stephen Adams' "Thora" and "Nirvana," very pleasingly. Other interpolated numbers included a Brazilian "Maxixe," danced with much grace by Messrs. Fairbairn and J. J. McCredy.

Other members of the cast who contributed much to the success of the comedy were the Misses M. Butler, D. Smith, Laura Eng, Y. Cook, and Messrs. R. Day, V. Miller and Stewart G. Clarke, the latter being also responsible for the artistic stage setting. The Girl Guides under the direction of Capt. Leighton added much to the comfort of patrons by acting as ushers.

SEND BLAKELOCK BACK TO ASYLUM

Famous Painter, at Liberty a Year, Is in Middletown State Hospital

Ralph Albert Blakelock, the famous painter, who was released from the State Hospital for the Insane at Middletown on September 6, 1916, with the hope that his recovery had progressed so far that he might be free for the rest of his life, and might even paint again in something like his old style, is again in the State Hospital at Middletown, says The New York Times.

The painter, whose genius was not fully recognized until he had long been in the asylum where he has spent seventeen years, had a little more than a year of freedom and enjoyed the fame and distinction which he failed to receive while he was creating works of art, but it was found necessary to return him to the institution.

He will be taken out of the asylum, for a time at least, in a few weeks, through the good offices of John G. Agar, Mrs. Van Rensselaer Adams and other friends, who looked after him during his previous period of freedom. The hope that his reason might be entirely cleared and that he could use the brush in the manner which he possessed in his prime, however, has been abandoned. According to close friends of the painter, his mental state was very little different at the time when his return to New York was hailed by artists and art lovers from what it was before and since. His delusions, however, do not always appear in his conversation, so that many who saw him for a short time only were naturally led to believe that he had full possession of his faculties and that he might still create more works to rank with paintings bearing his name which take a high place among American works.

The painter is too old for much to be expected of him, although during his stay at Lake George last summer he painted moonlight scenes and landscapes which were considered by good judges to have great merit, although they were never classed with his work done while his mind was clear.

Gains By Forgotten Picture.

A small fund was raised for the painter by his admirers at the time of his dramatic return to the world, which had come to appreciate his great talents, after he had lost the command of them. This was spent in taking care of him during the time that he was free, with Mrs. Van Rensselaer Adams acting as his guardian. Through a curious piece of fortune, however, he has come into a small sum which will do something to make his last years happier.

The artist at one time, many years ago, lived at the old Twenty-third Street Y. M. C. A. Building, while he was painting and selling for small sums works whose value is now expressed in four or five figures. He was too poor to pay his bill. He gave the Y. M. C. A. a note for the amount and one of his pictures for security.

The picture was hung on the wall of the Y. M. C. A. and the transaction completely forgotten, until it was recalled by the publicity which attended the old man's brief triumphal visit to this city to visit museums and galleries in which places of honor had been made for works of his which he had been compelled to dispose of for a few dollars each to an indifferent public during his creative days.

When the circumstances under which the Y. M. C. A. came into possession of the picture were remembered, that institution generously waived its rights in the picture which had grown to be worth several hundred times the debt which it secured. It was turned over to Blakelock and sold in his behalf for $4,000.

Delusions of Great Wealth.

Blakelock is now in his seventy-second year. He spends his time at the Middletown institution largely in painting and making designs for jewelry with wire. It was said last night that his work since his return there bore little traces of his earlier days.

His chief delusion is that he possesses great wealth. He has never had occasion to repine over the thought that the products of his brush, now worth hundreds of thousands of dollars, brought brought him only a meagre existence, because for seventeen years or more he has considered himself the wealthiest man on earth. A few days ago he felt called upon to reward a member of the National Academy of Design for a small favor, so he sent word from the hospital that he was sending $9,000,000 as a token of gratitude.

The old painter has been found to grow increasingly irresponsible unless under some restraint. He was fully able to enjoy his fame, to delight in seeing his pictures again and to identify his old friends.

WEALTH IN THE GUTTER

The "hard-up" merchant is back again to the London Streets. Any day you may see him gleaning from the gutter the cigar and cigarette ends that smokers toss there.

What he gleans may be judged from a statement set forth on a bill which used to be displayed in the window of a house at Clapton. The occupier of the dwelling, with a view to showing smokers how much tobacco they waste, set himself the task of picking up all the cigar-ends he could find in seven years between Clapton and the London Docks, where he worked. Now, the number, he said, was 600,000 and the average length of the pieces one and a half inches.

Lest this seem incredible, it must be added that the man was an indefatigable 'snapper-up of unconsidered trifles. By collecting stones, bits of brick, etc., while walking to and from work, for instance, he raised his garden three feet to the level of the road —an operation which absorbed about 100 tons of material. When the job was done he proudly sent for the landlord, who was so impressed by the improvement that he clapped on a shilling a week on his industrious tenant's rent.

But who — knowingly — buys "hard-up"? Inmates of shelters, paupers, casual workers, etc. There is a regular trade in the commodity in night shelters, and much of it is sold, generally in penn'orths, in open-air markets on Sunday morning. Not infrequently, too, little bundles of gutter gleanings are "swopped" for food. — Tit-Bits.

mission of the guilt of Germany in causing the war.

No New Arguments.

In replying, the Council of Four said:

"The Allied and Associated Powers have considered the note of the German delegation of even date, and in view of the shortness of time remaining, feel it their duty to reply at once. Of the time within which the German Government may make its final decision as to the signature of the treaty, less than twenty-four hours remain. The Allied and Associated Governments have given the fullest consideration to all the representations hitherto made by the German Government with regard to the treaty and have replied with complete frankness. They have made such concessions as they thought it just to make. The present note of the German delegation presents no new arguments or considerations not already examined."

No More Discussion.

The Council then declared that the time for discussion was past and that the German representatives must make a decision to sign and accept the treaty as a whole or to reject it.

The full text of the German note shows that while but two reservations were made, the Germans asked for the insertion in the treaty of a clause providing that within two years that document should be submitted to the Council of the League of Nations for re-consideration of that portion of the treaty which, as the Germans phrased it, "impairs the right to self-determination of the German people."

Similar re-consideration of that portion "whereby the free economic development of Germany on a footing of equal rights is denied," also was provided for in this suggested clause.

Paris, June 23.—A protocol to be added to the peace treaty, explanatory of the six points raised by the Germans, reads:

"Firstly, a Commission will be named by the Allied and Associated Governments to supervise the demolition of the fortifications of Heligoland in conformity with the treaty. This Commission will be empowered to decide what part of the fortifications protecting the coast from erosion should be preserved and what part demolished.

"Secondly, the sums which the German Government have to refund to its citizens to indemnify them for interests they may be found to have in the railroads and mines referred to in Paragraph 2, Article 156, shall be placed to the credit of Germany on account of the sum due for reparations."

The protocol refers to German private interests in railroads and mines in Shantung as distinct from German state interests.

For Trial.

"Thirdly, a list of persons who, according to Article 228, Paragraph 2, Germany must surrender to the Allied and Associated Powers will be sent to the German Government during the month following the putting into force of the treaty.

"Fourthly, the Commission on reparations provided for by Article 22, Paragraphs 2, 3 and 4 can not exact divulgences of secrets of manufacture or confidential information.

"Fifth, from the signature of peace and in the four months following, Germany will have an opportunity of presenting for the examination of the Allied and Associated Powers, documents and propositions with a view to hastening the work relating to reparations, thus shortening the investigation and hastening decisions.

"Sixthly, prosecutions will be exercised against those committing criminal acts in connection with the liquidation of German property and the Allied and Associated Powers shall receive any information and proofs that the German Government shall be in a position to supply on this subject."

ships, The Daily Mail states. He did so because at the beginning of the war the German Kaiser directed that no German warship should fall into the enemy's hands. He says that he believed from newspaper reports that the armistice had been ended.

Some Drowned

London, June 23.—Although reports have stated that six Germans were killed and ten wounded when the boats of the German fleet in Scapa Flow were fired upon subsequent to the scuttling of the German fleet, The Daily Mail says that others may have been drowned and that some possibly have reached the Orkney Islands.

The main force of the British fleet was absent exercising at sea when the Germans ships were sunk.

Violent Explosion

London, June 23.—Early yesterday morning a violent explosion occurred close to the spot where one of the German warships was sunk on Saturday, says a Kirkwall dispatch to the Central News. A huge column of water and much debris were thrown up.

The single German warship that remained at anchor has gone aground.

All the German crews have been placed aboard the British battleship Royal Sovereign.

after the Riot Act had been read from the steps of the City Hall by Mayor Gray; the second, that scattered shots, presumably from the crowd, followed immediately after the reading of the Riot Act.

Aeroplane Used.

The detection of incipient riot and congregations of the disaffected had been made easy by the work of the battleplane "City of Winnipeg," which all Saturday afternoon hovered over the city, and it is stated, indeed, that it was subjected to rifle sniping from Elmwood, a suburb across the Red River, northeast. This plane is equipped with wireless and its observer was in constant communication with Brigadier-General Ketchen, General Officer Commanding Military District No. 10, at Fort Osborne Barracks in the heart of the city. It is armed with a machine gun, and is otherwise interesting, for it was presented by the city to the Dominion Government early in the war for use overseas. Since then it has been returned to Winnipeg.

A Trick.

Rather a neat one Saturday afternoon was slipped over the confiding foreign settlements of the North End. Ward was passed round that several cars of fruit were spoiling at the Canadian Pacific Railway freight sheds and would be handed out free. A great swarm of aliens took advantage of this free lunch, but twenty-five suspects among them were promptly arrested and are now in jail.

A torrential rain dampened out what remained of ardor among the rioters Saturday night. The scene on Main Street was that of a beleaguered city. All its ingresses being blocked, first by cordons of special police and then by armed sentinels in uniform. Its great expanse was deserted save for the cars of the military, moving bodies of troops, and armored cars.

Four Army Units.

Besides numerous machine gun units, all the four military units were out in force, namely, the 79th Cameron Highlanders, the 90th Winnipeg Rifles, the 100th Winnipeg Grenadiers and the 106th Winnipeg Light Infantry. In these militia units are many returned soldiers, who have again donned their khaki, bearing the familiar identification marks of such veteran battalions as the 8th, 16th, 27th, 43rd and 78th, all of which were originally recruited from the militia units specified above. These have returned from France and the Rhine within the last two or three months. Back on the job again with their shining accoutrements, their fixed bayonets and their seasoned officers and N. C. O.'s, these men look very business-like and capable of handling any emergency. Many wear decorations won in the field. With them were cavalry of the Fort Garry Horse and the Strathcona Horse.

"Silent Parade."

"We have tried every method save one," shouted Comrade Martin at a meeting of the returned soldiers in Market Square on Friday night. "That is our last remaining resource. It is the massed silent parade. When in the Old Country a general strike was on the eve of collapse, this was the last resort, and it so influenced public opinion, by the significance of its appeal that the men won their fight. This is what we propose for Saturday afternoon—no rough stuff, but only the solemn, silent parade of the returned soldiers in vindication of the cause of the general strike."

Forbidden by Mayor.

The Mayor forbade this assembly, and when at the appointed "zero" hour the words "Fall in" passed along those thousands massed for blocks on Main Street north and south of the City Hall, the Mayor's determination was shown by the advance of the R. N. W. M. P., famed "riders of the plains," gay in their scarlet. What followed is now a matter of history. But it is a fact that in those tense minutes certain leaders of the returned soldiers endeavored to control the mob to the original object, and once when the horsemen had passed momentarily out of sight north, one of these declared that now the military were gone, the silent parade would be held. But by that time the passions of the crowd had become so inflamed that anything of the kind became impossible. Not a Brutus could have controlled those swaying, hysterical masses. And the tragic incident of the street car fired their appetite for destruction and hate.

Two Battles.

Early reports were necessarily confusing and lists of casualties incomplete. This was because two battles were in progress, hidden from one another by the broad turn of Main Street, making invisible save to spectators actually on the corner the separated fields of hostility. The main battle was in front of the City Hall, extending from William Avenue north beyond James Street, its core and crux being the derelict street car in front of Market Street. Quite spontaneously, but apparently simultaneously, another battle broke out round the corner on Main Street with Bannatyne Avenue as its focus. Casualties here cleared into a drug store, while on the larger field they cleared into an undertaking parlor.

Police Patient

It will take a court of law to establish the precise sequence of events all along this battlefront, but to the onlooker at the street car there can be no doubt that the mounted police used the utmost patience and restraint. They did not draw their batons until many had been put out of action. They did not fire a volley until the Riot Act had been read and they had received the word of command. Even then, as it looked to the onlooker, they fired only under the apprehension, mistaken, as it turned out, that their unhorsed comrade was being man-handled. Whatever mistakes were made, there does not appear any question of an exceeding of authority, and perhaps life might have been saved and bloodshed would have been averted had they received the order to fire a blank volley after their second charge instead of after the third, when the unhorsing of several of the men brought a new element into the situation and whetted the appetite for blood.

At Street Car

One incident remains to be recorded. The wrecked street car, No. 596, was manned by Motorman Rankin and Conductor Chambers. Both these men stuck by the car long after it had been put out of commission. The conductor, a grey-haired man, stuck to his post even after lumps of concrete and shivered glass were falling around him. He was struck on the head by a brick. Both made good their escape, but their presence of mind, carelessness of personal danger and resolute sense of duty contributed in the first place to the safe removal of the women and children with whom the car was half filled, and then to a little spectacle of heroism that, in its modest way, shed a ray of brightness over an otherwise dreary scene.

Orders From Ottawa

Mayor Gray is authority for saying that the R.N.W.M.P. were the only troops used in the first phase of Saturday's riots because orders had come to the City Council from Ottawa that the militia was only to be called out at the last extremity. The order for the R.N.W.M.P. to maintain law and order in Winnipeg came from Hon. N. W. Rowell, President of the Privy Council, to Commissioner Perry, and it is said that 500 men of this force are now in the city. But plans were completed many days ago by the military for taking control of the situation as soon as they were called upon by the civil authorities.

The troop of the R.N.W.M.P. engaged numbered only fifty-five men, and few of these escaped without wounds or contusions, the worst being a broken ankle. The horses suffered in like degree, one of these being blinded by a lump of concrete.

These lumps of concrete, considerably larger and heavier than a brick, were a favored missile, being obtained from a neighboring building in process of wreckage.

Mounted Police.

Contrary to earlier impressions, the mounted men were confined entirely to the R. N. W. M. P. Because the first line was in scarlet and the second line in khaki, it was erroneously assumed that the latter were recruited from the Strathcona or the Fort Garry Horse. It developed that the men in khaki were R. N. W. M. P. men who had served overesas with that mounted unit, going through all the hard fighting of last autumn. They had but just returned and had not got back into scarlet and they were all experienced soldiers. On the other hand, the men in scarlet in the front ranks included some young recruits, and the man who was unhorsed and took shelter in Thompson's Undertaking Parlor was a young fellow who had recently joined from Ontario.

Portection.

It was at first supposed that this young fellow in his scarlet uniform ran out again from the shelter back across Main Street and being seized by the mob, became the unwilling first cause of the shooting. The evidence, that appears unimpeachable, however, shows that is not correct. Comrade Parnell, chairman of that section of the returned soldiers which has thrown in its lot with the strikers, on seeing him unhorse and pursued, ran across to the undertakers and, assisted by another returned soldier, conducted him safely across Main Street, telling the mob that this man must not be touched.

Revolver Shots.

Winnipeg, June 23.—In the last extra edition of The Telegram on Saturday night, the paper said:

"Two salvos of revolver shots rang out in rapid succession and the crowds fled in all directions. Strikers on nearby roofs, armed with revolvers, fired almost indiscriminately into the mob, wounding several returned soldiers and special policemen.

"At the height of the rioting word was passed for 'all returned men to rush the Industrial Bureau,' but any who were tempted to follow the advice got lost in the shuffle before they ever got a chance to get that far."

The Free Press Bulletin, in a late extra edition, said:

"The trouble broke out again spasmodically during the afternoon. Firing was heard at frequent intervals. It early became apparent that many of the rioters were armed. In spite of the reading of Riot Act people thronged the streets. Many spectators appeared to have but a slight knowledge, or none at all of the significance of the reading of the Riot Act."

Twenty Shots.

The Manitoba Free Press this morning said:

"The strikers in a great many cases were armed. Inspector Henry Green, charging the line in the rear of the Labor Temple, was fired on by a man on the roof of one of the buildings facing on James Street. Twenty shots were fired at him, none taking effect.

"Rocks also were thrown from the tops of buildings in the civinity, the charge of the 'special,' however, driving the assailants into retirement.

A Toronto Protest

Toronto, June 23.—A gathering of about 3,000 men in Queen's Park here Saturday night, called to protest against working class persecution and profiteering, passed a resolution calling upon the Minister of Justice immediately to grant bail to the thirteen men sentenced as alleged spreaders of sedition by a Toronto magistrate to terms of imprisonment from six months to three years "without having been arraigned or tried according to the Criminal Code," and grant them a fair and open trial.

A resolution was passed asking the Government "to repeal immediately the recent drastic amendment to the Immigration Act, which gives the Dominion authorities power to seize and deport without trial any person of other than Canadian birth who may be deemed to be acting against constituted authority. Rev. Dr. Salem Bland, a Methodist Minister of this city, recently of Winnipeg, entered his protest against the treatment meted out to the strike leaders in Winnipeg who were arrested and shipped away to Stony Mountain penitentiary. "These men are being treated as no Canadians ever were treated in the past," he said.

The meeting was held under the auspices of the Toronto District Trades and Labor Council.

Meeting Yesterday.

Vancouver, June 23.—Before a big audience in the Arena here yesterday afternoon the striking unions affirmed their reported intention of continuing on strike until such time as their demands are recognized, and then going back to work only as a body. The declaration that the existence of organized labor in Vancouver is at stake in the present industrial crisis, that the civic employees must be reinstated in their positions, and that the Winnipeg strike leaders must be satisfied with the negotiations in that city before the Vancouver unions now on strike will return to work was made by various speakers.

"When Winnipeg is ready for a settlement we are ready," declared J. Kavanaugh, strike leader, "but not until such time as Winnipeg is ready. This is a real movement of organized labor and can not be dealt with by the employers as if individual unions only were on strike. Amongst other things, every civic employee must be taken back into his position. Revolution is not our aim—it is the education of the people.

A "Religion."

"The strike has developed into a religion in Winnipeg," said F. Barron, a delegate from the Winnipeg trades unions, who arrived in the city on Saturday. "Speaking for the running trades of the railways, I can say that they never get into a strike unless for victory, and they will come into this one towards the end, and give the decisive punch. The arrests have made the labor unions more bitter in Winnipeg, and probably will have the effect of driving unions who had no thought of such a thing into the One Big Union idea. There are in Winnipeg 53,000 people on strike and a solid organization of 7,000 returned soldiers with them."

Mr. Barron, who is a veteran of the war, told the audience that the injuries inflicted upon Sergeant Coppin, V. C., were not the work of aliens, as was reported, but were chiefly done by members of his old battalion, the 8th, of Winnipeg. The V. C. hero, said the speaker, had ridden down the sidewalk into the strikers, when he was dragged from his horse by returned men and severely handled.

NEW YORK STOCKS MARK TIME

Mixed Sentiment Caused a Broad Evening Up Market

(By Burdick Bros. & Brett, Ltd.)

New York, June 23.—Opening prices were generally higher this morning, in many issues the best price of the day was made at the start. In some quarters another flurry in the money market is looked for and a hardening tendency was seen late to-day. This and other uncertainties made the majority of traders inclined to go slow and a great deal of a big day's business consisted of evening up trades. Motor stocks were looked upon with favor. Steel stocks were sluggish and somewhat lower at the end. U. S. Rubber is well taken on all reactions. The so-called food stocks showed great firmness.

CHICAGO CORN STILL HIGHER

(By Burdick Bros. & Brett, Ltd.)

Chicago, June 23.—There does not appear to be any top to the corn market. New prices in the options were registered today notwithstanding the fact that cash corn is selling on the same basis as July option. There was considerable selling for short account in the first hour, but the unexpected strength caused a wide covering movement before the close.

DRIVE AT FURIOUS PACE

P. E. Ferguson Fined $25 For Speeding in Early Morning—Two Others Fined.

For driving through the city at a fast rate of speed P. E. Ferguson was fined $25 in the police court this morning. Sergt. Fry gave evidence that he saw the accused driving a motor car at 4 o'clock one morning along Burdette Avenue with the cut-out open and the engine full on. It was travelling so fast that he could not get the number. There were a man and women in the back of the car. An hour later he saw the same care showing another burst of speed on Government Street, and again was unable to get the number. Shortly afterwards he identified the car.

The accused pleaded guilty to the charge, and Magistrate Jay tendered him some good advice as well as telling him that such a practice must cease.

Hugh McKenzie and Fennerty Bros. were each fined $10 for speeding.

MAY CONSIDER RECREATION AGAIN

Recreation Commission Requests Council to Deliberate Once More

Recreation and supervision of playgrounds, a matter which has afforded food for thought and inspiration and for much speaking among aldermen of late will probably be discussed again by the City Council to-night.

The Recreation Commission which broached the subject to the Council in the first place, and had its request for funds refused, has written another letter to the aldermen urging re-consideration of its proposals.

While the Council can discuss the matter to-night it can take no action until a notice of motion has been duly posted. As seven days have elapsed since the Council refused to grant money for the supervision of playgrounds only the Mayor can post the necessary notice of motion. His Worship voted against the proposals of the Recreation Commission before. Whether the Council will consider the question further and whether the Mayor will introduce a new motion next week remains to be seen.

COUNCIL TO CONSIDER THE HOUSING SCHEME

The housing scheme will be considered by members of the City Council to-night, and it is probable that the aldermen will decide to accept at least a part of Victoria's allocation under the Dominion Housing Scheme. It is understood that a number of aldermen who at first opposed the acceptance of the plan, have changed their minds and favor the use of part of the allocation to meet the demands of a number of returned men. The city, it will be remembered, rejected the scheme at first.

STRIKE TIES UP SPENCER ADDITION

Work on the new Spencer addition was suspended at 1 o'clock this afternoon when a business agent called out the steam shovel men. As a result the contractors, Luney Bros., were unable to continue their work and the teams had to be sent to the barns.

The carpenters employed on the building downed their tools at 10 o'clock this morning, but the steam shovel remained at work and the excavating proceeded. At 1 o'clock, however, the men were called out.

Luney Bros. explain that there is no dispute between their firm and the men.

In the County Court the case of Bullen vs. Cameron, a claim for payment of a promissory note, is proceeding. Plaintiff claims for payment of a promissory note given for an engine.

Roses in Parliament Grounds. — Always a scene of beauty at any season of the year, the gardens before the Parliament Buildings are just now at their zenith, with the central rose-beds in full bloom. Hundreds of varieties are represented in the collection, and the lovely blooms form a riot of color around the fountain. The head gardener, James B. Partington, has excelled himself this year in his care of the Queen of Flowers, the roses being in a condition fit for exhibition and reflecting the meticulous care bestowed upon them. Visitors arriving by the boat from Seattle and Vancouver invariably exclaim with admiration at the lovely sight, which is well worth a special visit from every Victorian.

48th Battalion Re-Union Banquet.—Ex-members of the 48th Battalion have planned to hold a re-union banquet and social evening on Wednesday, June 25, to commemorate the anniversary of the battalion's departure from Victoria for overseas service. All ex-members and their lady friends have been invited to attend the gathering which is to be held at the Dominion Hotel, and a number of social features have been arranged. The Battalion holds an enviable record for achievement in the fighting line and the members hope to perpetuate its memory in fitting fashion by these re-unions where former comrades can meet to renew the ties formed under arms. Tickets for the function may be obtained at the K. of C. Army Hut or of ex-Sergt. Green, 2609 Foul Bay Road.

DISCUSS COST OF LIBRARY UPKEEP

Representatives of Municipalities Confer With City On Issue

How much the neighboring municipalities should pay toward the upkeep of the Victoria Public Library was discussed at a conference between the Library Commission and representatives of Oak Bay, Saanich, and Esquimalt this morning. The whole situation, the cost of upkeep, the use of the Library by residents of the municipalities, and the city's threat to stop this use should there be no increase in the report to their respective Councils. Some of the delegates seemed to think that the fairest scheme which could be adopted would be for the city to charge the individual residents of municipalities for the use of the Library.

The municipalities, it was stated, will be prepared to submit later a proposal for future apportionment of contributors, taking advantage of the Public Libraries Act.

OBITUARY RECORDS

The death occurred at the Royal Jubilee Hospital yesterday afternoon of George Morris, aged sixty-eight years. He was born in England, and had been a resident for some time on the East Saanich Road. Jaynes, of the Salvation Army, will officiate. Interment will be made at Ross Bay cemetery.

The funeral of Thomas A. Le Page, a victim of the Sophia wreck, will be held to-morrow morning at 10.30 from the Sands Funeral Chapel. Rev. Gilbert Cook will officiate and interment will be made at Ross Bay cemetery. The late Mr. Le Page was thirty-four years of age, a native of Channel Islands, and at the time of his death was a steward on the ill-fated vessel. He is survived by his widow residing in Hamilton, Ontario, a mother, brothers and sisters in the Channel Islands. He was a member of Court Victoria, A. O. F., and also a member of B. C. KEEPING BUSY

Monthly Report of British Columbia House Shows Considerable Activity.

In the monthly report of the activities of British Columbia House which reached Premier Oliver's office this morning it is shown that during the month of May 629 soldiers slept in the dormitory, 1,233 letters were sent out, 1,104 letters were received, 654 interviews took place, 887 visitors registered and 1,390 persons visited the reading room.

ALLIED TROOPS WERE PREPARED

Would Have Moved Forward Without Delay Had Germany Balked

Paris, June 23.—The fact that the Germans asked only forty-eight hours' delay and yet were refused was regarded in Peace Conference circles as indicating the intention of the Allies to push matters to an immediate conclusion. The great Allied military machine was ready to move on the stroke of the hour of expiration of the time limit.

After disposing of the German request, the Council of Four apparently dismissed her affairs to the fate of the hours still left the enemy to reply, and resumed consideration of the Austrian treaty.

Brest, June 23.—The United States ship transport George Washington, which will carry President Wilson back to the United States, received orders to-day to be ready to sail Thursday morning.

ALWAYS IN THE LEAD.

At the recent convention of editors a delegate told about the first editor he worked under. "Right or wrong he was always right. I recall on one occasion where the paper announced the death of William R. Jones, who, it turned out, was not dead. Accordingly next day the paper printed the following note: 'Yesterday we were the first to publish the death of William R. Jones. To-day we are the first to deny the report. The Star is always in the lead.'"

GRAZING PROGRAMME GETTING UNDER WAY

Commissioner McKenzie Returns After Thirteen Organization Meetings

Between May 22 and June 16 Grazing Commissioner McKenzie attended thirteen meetings for the purpose of inaugurating local policies of range control through the medium of local associations. These gatherings were well attended bw the stockmen of the respective districts and the Commissioner intimates that good progress has been already made at the following points: Penticton, Summerland, Kelowna, Vernon, Kamloops, Louis Creek, Vavenby, Heffley Creek, Clinton, Keremeos, Princeton, Merritt and Temple's Ranch. With the exception of the first four places each district has already formed its association.

First Meetings.

The meetings held were the first since the Grazing Act became law and the general object of the gatherings was to discuss plans for the year's work on the range with organized associations, to explain the procedure, to assemble the principles of grazing control and to arrange details for the establishment of boundaries for each sub-district to be placed under the jurisdiction of the various associations.

At each meeting frank questions and frank answers quickly eliminated the superfluous and led to the detection of the major problems in each locality. Mr. McKenzie stated, however, that friction in both a large and a small way exists on the range lands. To get over this he says that allotments must be arranged so as to give each settler the greatest measure of protection in his use of the range near his ranch. Conferences with committees appointed from the local users is his prime remedy.

Many Affiliations.

Plans are under way to construct a few fences to protect range lands for settlers' use where encroachment by outside cattle is seriously handicapping them, also to protect early and late range, the prompt restoration of which the Commissioner considers to be urgent.

A hopeful sign of success for the Government's grazing policy is the number of applications for range now being filed at the Department of Lands and it is anticipated that before the close of the present season most stockmen will have established their rights to the range. Arrangements have been made to begin the approval of applications on July 1 and grazing premits will be issued soon after that date.

Next month the Commissioner intends to devote to the settlement of such acute problems as exist and to allot permits as to eliminate the possibility of future friction.

Good Season Expected.

The Commissioner reports both range and stock in excellent condition throughout the grazing country and he anticipates a good season.

THE PATIENT'S CONDITION.

At a certain hospital they are having a good laugh at the expense of a certain physician who had sent a patient home as convalescent. He instructed the man's wife to call on him the next morning at the hospital and report. In due time she called up and said: "He has been feeling very badly. I do everything I can to please him, but nothing seems to satisfy him." "But you wouldn't say his condition was critical, would you?" demanded the doctor. To which the woman replied: "It's worse than critical; it's abusive."

DIVINE DECIDES TO ACCEPT EPISCOPACY

Well-known Seattle Clergyman Will Become Bishop of Nebraska

Seattle, June 23.—That he will accept the Episcopalian bishopric of Nebraska to which he was elected recently as soon as his successor as rector of St. Mark's Church can be installed is the announcement made to his congregation by Rev Ernest Vincent Shayler.

Dr. Shayler's decision was the result of much careful consideration of the Victory Memorial Cathedral project launched by his congregation, success of which he said must be assured before he would accept the office, and of several conferences with his vestrymen and a trip to Nebraska to confer with the clergy of that diocese.

"Many and conflicting emotions have passed through my soul in these weeks following the election," Dr. Shayler said in addressing his congregation. "Letters and telegrams from bishops, priests and laymen have come in large numbers urging my acceptance. I have been equally besought by many friends representing all creeds and minds—in all walks of life—begging me to decline the election and to remain here to champion the faith, to serve God for the people and to serve the people for God."

Urged to Remain.

Dr. Shayler said that the Seattle Ministers' Federation and his brother ministers of every orthodox Christian faith had passed resolutions urging him to remain in Seattle and that his natural inclinations would be to act in accordance with their action.

"St. Mark's Parish, with its wonderful strength, its important relation to the diocese and to the whole Pacific Coast; the Victory Memorial Cathedral with its impelling project so successfully launched and a vision of what it will be to Seattle's life; my loyal parishioners; my loving friends, rich and poor of every creed; my nearly ten years of signally successful and blessed ministry in a parish with but one motive; the extension of the Kingdom of God—all alike urge my declination of the Nebraska election," Dr. Shayler said.

Election Unanimous.

Dr. Shayler declared that the deciding factor in every exigency of life must not be personal aggrandizement or personal acquaintance, but the will of God. He said that he consequently had tried to determine the will of God in making his decision in regard to the bishopric and that he believed many factors surrounding the situation pointed to his acceptance.

There had been a painful scene the night before, when Bertie had asked for the hand of Beatrice, and now the lovers were talking over the future.

"I am shocked, said Beatrice, "at the way father treated you. I always worshipped him, but it seems my idol has feet of clay."

"Clay!" exclaimed Bertie. "Concrete, more likely."

BIG INCREASE IN TONNAGE CALLING AT CANADIAN PORTS

Movement Greater in Demobilization Period Than in Previous Year

The amount of shipping through Canadian ports still controlled by the Canadian Director General of the British Ministry of Shipping, has actually been larger in the first five months of 1919 during the period of demobilization than in 1918, when the war with its attendant operations was supposed to be at its height. The gross tonnage of materials and supplies cleared during these five months compared to the corresponding months of previous years is as follows:

1915.	1916.	1917.	1918.	1919.
28,000	124,550	178,030	339,198	299,755
15,248	170,353	211,505	278,419	256,458
19,762	172,917	266,750	400,323	264,160
15,307	176,894	227,361	412,433	495,982
10,431	164,906	444,870	325,267	478,641

This shows a gross tonnage for the first five months of 1919 of no less than 1,804,995 tons, or nearly as much as the total tonnage for the whole year 1916. The gross tonnage of material and supplies, excluding horses and mules, cleared from Canadian ports since the beginning of the war to the end of May, 1919, has reached the enormous total of 14,044,758 tons.

Such an achievement was only possible through the co-operation of the railway companies.

The system inaugurated in Canada since the outbreak of the war of controlling the shipments so as to conform to the actual shipping capacity at the ports has worked admirably and there has been no congestion on Canadian roads in spite of the enormous traffic carried.

TOO SMALL.

A returned soldier had scarcely greeted friend wife after his return from France, when she asked eagerly: "And dearie, did you bring me a lot of souvenirs?" "Only this little bullet the doctor took out of my side," he answered gravely. "Aw, gee," sighed wifey, "I wish it had been a German helmet."

THE POLICE FORCE OF THE BODY

DAY and night—without ceasing—a struggle is going on in your body between the germs of disease and the white blood corpuscles—the police force of the human body.

If this police force weakens, disease germs gain a foothold—sickness follows.

Constipation is the most common and dangerous way of corrupting the human police force. Food waste remains too long in the intestines—decays—poisons the blood—and opens the way for attack by the germs that cause tuberculosis, diphtheria, pneumonia and a multitude of other ills.

The culpable habit of using salts, pills, mineral waters, castor oil, etc., to force the bowels to move, makes this condition even worse, as constipation returns almost immediately.

Nujol is entirely different from drugs as it does not force or irritate the bowels.

Nujol prevents stagnation by softening the food waste and encouraging the intestinal muscles to act naturally, thus removing the cause of constipation and self-poisoning. It is absolutely harmless and pleasant.

Nujol helps Nature establish easy, thorough bowel evacuation at regular intervals—the healthiest habit in the world.

Get a bottle of Nujol from your druggist today and keep your police force on the job.

Warning: Nujol is sold in sealed bottles bearing the Nujol Trade Mark. All druggists. Insist on Nujol. You may suffer from substitutes.

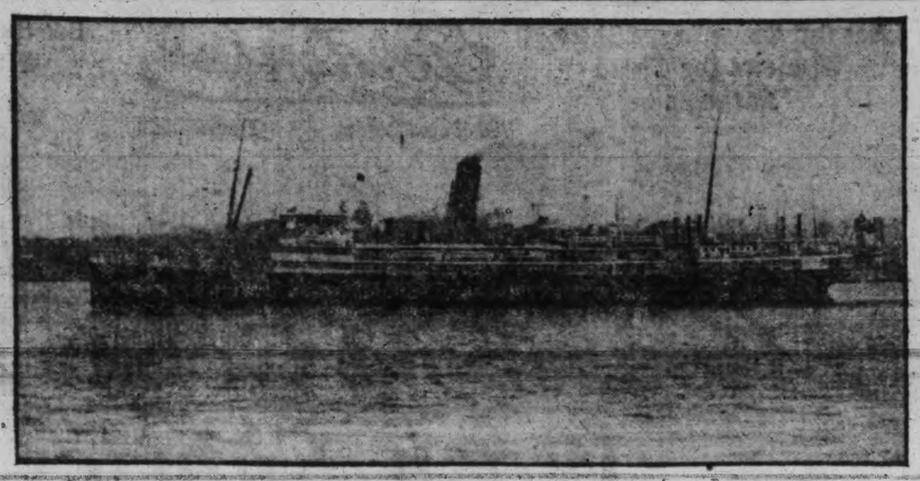
Indefinately Delayed by Strike



CANADIAN-AUSTRALASIAN LINER MAKURA

SCHOONER GUNN TO LEAVE TO-MORROW

Vessel Just Completed at Cholberg Yard Will Be Dispatched to Vancouver

In tow of the tug Spray the four-masted wooden schooner Gunn, Capt. Carl Ellefsen, will leave port to-morrow morning for Vancouver. The Gunn is the first of three vessels to be completed here for Norwegian interests.

She will load 1,200,000 feet of lumber at Hastings Mill for delivery at Greenock. The strike on the mainland, however, will delay the loading of the Gunn, but the builders have arrived at a decision to dispatch the ship to her loading port.

"She is the finest ship of her class I have seen on this coast," declared Capt. H. C. Hansen, representative of the Porsgrund Damp and Seil Company, and owner of two other vessels of this type under construction at the Cholberg yard.

In this statement he was corroborated by Captain Ellefsen, her master, who affirmed that he had never boarded a finer sailing ship.

H. C. Hansen, a son of Captain Hansen, is the new mate of the Gunn. He recently terminated a voyage on the five-masted auxiliary schooner H. C. Hansen, which is now under going engine repairs at Seattle.

The strike here will not materially affect the H. C. Hansen repair contract, it was stated by Captain Hansen this morning.

It has developed that the schooner has broken her two crank shafts and this will delay the ship at Seattle for another three weeks. By the expiration of that time it is expected that the strike will be over and the ship will then come here to be recaulked.

In the meantime the Cholberg yard is closed down and Captain Hansen is taking advantage of the opportunity to spend a holiday in Seattle.

CUSTOMS MEN MAKE HAUL FROM CYCLOPS

Report That Holt Liner Had Illicit Stock of Opium and Cocaine

Seattle, June 23.—That a series of arrests may follow the seizure of an enormous quantity of cocaine, opium and liquor on the Blue Funnel line Cyclops, discovered Saturday evening after a search of three days, was indicated on Sunday afternoon by customs officials.

Collector of Customs Roscoe M. Drumheller continued a search of the Cyclops, which is docked at pier 14, on Monday. His chief customs inspector, Frank P. Loftus, is also investigating the case with a view of placing the blame for the presence of the contraband on the steamer.

When the Cyclops reached Seattle from Yokohama and other ports in the Far East, last Tuesday, federal customs officials began a thorough search of the vessel which continued Wednesday and part of Thursday. The search was resumed at 1 o'clock, Saturday afternoon. About 500 pounds of opium, valued wholesale at $6,000, two sacks of cocaine, each sack containing about fifteen cans, holding twenty-six ounces of the drug, valued wholesale at about $10,000, and a big supply of wines and whisky, were discovered in the ship's wing bunkers, under hundreds of tons of coal.

CAR-FERRY CANORA.

The Canadian National Railways Board has issued instructions that the C. N. R. car-ferry Canora is to be put into operation at once providing a crew can be secured to man the vessel.

It is probable that in the event of it being impossible to get a crew together the car-ferry will be manned by naval ratings.

SERGT. FLORENCE HOME

Former Police Constable Went Over With 10th Ammunition Column.

Sergt. James Florence, one of the well-known constables of the Victoria police force, returned to Victoria on Friday after being overseas for over three years.

Sergt. Florence left here with the 10th Brigade Ammunition Column, and in England transferred to the 3rd D. A. C. He saw a great deal of action in France, getting over in time for the Somme, and staying with the game until the end. He was able to enjoy a trip to the Rhine.

FAST TIME MADE WITH COMOX COAL

Liners Katori Maru and Empress of Russia Speeded Up Burning B. C. Fuel

The splendid steaming qualities of British Columbia coal were clearly demonstrated in recent fast trans-Pacific voyages by ocean liners running out of this port.

Burning Comox coal, the N.Y.K. liner Katori Maru, on her last outward trip, cut her schedule down by a day. On a recent voyage the C.P.R. liner Empress of Russia was compelled to slow down on three occasions during the trans-Pacific run to a speed of fifteen knots in order not to exceed her schedule time.

The Empress of Russia burns Comox coal.

Of the steamships due at the Comox mines this week the C.P.R. liner Monteagle is expected to coal on Friday and the freighter Methven is expected at Comox on Wednesday.

The Egremont Castle, bound across the Pacific by way of the Panama Canal is due here about the middle of July to load bunkers at Comox.

PROCLAMATION BY MAYOR OF WINNIPEG

Says Lawlessness and Intimidation in Manitoba Capital Must Cease

Winnipeg, June 23.—The following proclamation was issued early this morning by Mayor Charles F. Gray:

"Proclamation—The Riot Act has been read and remains in full force and effect in Winnipeg. Riotous assembly of crowds, riotous attacks on persons or property and rioteus damage to property are indictable offences and all persons guilty of the same are liable to imprisonment.

"Assembly in crowds, congregating and standing on the streets, is dangerous and you do so at your own risk.

"The riots of Saturday were a direct challenge to constituted authority and were promptly and vigorously suppressed and my proclamation strictly enforced.

"Citizens—All lawlessness and intimidation must cease.

"Those of you who wish to return to your work can do so without fear of molestation, and if you are in the slightest way interfered with or intimidated, notify at once the Mayor or Chief of Police and the offenders will be traced down by the Royal Northwest Mounted Police and the city police if it takes years to do so.

"Any foreigner who makes any threats of any kind or in any way intimidates or worries would-be workers in the slightest degree, can expect immediate deportation to Russia or wherever he came from. We intend to purge the city of any lawless element and prosecute to the full rigor of the law. On the other hand, all law-abiding citizens can feel free to go about their business in the full realization that British law will protect them to the limit. No further open-air meetings, either in parks, streets or public places, will be permitted until further notice.

"God Cave the King.

(Sgd.) "CHAS F. GRAY, Mayor."

Centenary in November of George Eliot's Birth

In literary circles is being celebrated the centennial of the birth of Mary Ann Evans, who became Mrs. J. W. Cross, and who shares with her French sister, George Sand (nee Dupin and subsequently Mme. Dudevant) a peculiar distinction to which no male writer of their time or since can lay claim—that of having compelled critics, biographers and works of reference to refer to them by their universally known pen names rather than by their almost forgotten real ones, observes the Philadelphia Public Ledger. Both led unconventional lives—George Eliot's lesser dereliction looming perhaps as largely against the strait-laced standards of English society as George Sand's absolute freedom did against the more tolerent ideas of France. Both conquered masculine acknowledgment of their literary prowess, and at the height of their fame each was mentioned habitually—the Englishwoman with Dickens and Thackeray, the Frenchwoman with Hugo and Balzac— as one of a great trinity of national novelists.

George Eliot's Realm.

Both have lost that exalted rank and have come to be grouped with those the bulk of whose work was not for all time, but for a day. None the less, George Sand, if only for her mastery of style, and George Eliot, if only for her spirited portrayal of provincial English life in the days of her youth, will not soon be quite forgotten. "Middle march" and "Daniel Deronda" may have few readers; Felix Holt's mild radicalism may pall on a world treated daily to pronunciamentos from its Trotskys and Bela Kuns; "Romola" may cease to interest anyone as a serious account of life in medieval Italy; but at any rate lovers of life's little comedies can still read with amusement the conversations of the sisterly quartette, Mesdames Glegg, Deane, Pullet and Tulliver and their inferior halves.

Some Homely Wisdom.

Some of the homely bits of wisdom that fall from the lips of George Eliot's characters are as pointed as any of the didactic asides of the novelist in her own character. "The law's made to take care 'o raskills," was Mr. Tulliver's dying opinion. "There's no slipping uphill again and no standing still when you've begun to slip down," thought Adam Bede. "It's but little good you'll do a-watering the last year's crop," said Mrs. Poyser, that eminent advocate of common sense. "If you could make a pudding wi' thinking o' the batter, it 'ud be easy getting dinner," was another of her dicto. "Them as ha' never had a cushion don't miss it," she observed again. Bartle Massey, in the same novel, was a misogymist of the extremest kind. "I tell you," he said, "there isn't a thing under the sun that needs to be done at all but what a man can do better than a woman, unless it's bearing children, and they do that in a poor, makeshift way. It had better ha' been left to the men—it had better ha' been left to the men!" But to him and his like Mrs. Poyser made the enduring retort: "I'm not denying the women are foolish; God Almighty made 'em to match the men." But we think Bartle's "come back" was even neater: "To match the men as a horsefly matches a horse."

Some Epigrams.

Here are a few more quotations from George Eliot: "Nothing is so good as it seems beforehand," says the disillusioned wife in "Silas Marner." "The happiest women, like the happiest nations, have no history," is an obiter dictum in "The Mill on the Floss." "Little children are still the symbol of the eternal marriage between love and duty" is from the "Proem" to "Romola," and "When Death, the great reconcilor, has come it is never our tenderness that we repent of, but our severity," is from "Adam Bede." "Marriage must be a relation either of sympathy or of conquest" can be found in "Romola," and in that novel may also be read: "Justice is like the kingdom of God—it is not without us as a fact, it is within us as a great yearning."

"Animals are such agreeable friends—they ask no questions, they pass no criticisms," is an observation from Mr. Gilfil's Love Story, in "Scenes of Clerical Life."

From George Eliot's most ambitious poem, "The Spanish Gypsy," come the wise observations: "Particular lies may speak a general truth," and "Wise books for half the truths they hold are honored tombs." Don Silva, in that poem, gives expression to a somewhat heterodox view of the relative nature of men's and women's love for each other:

Women know no perfect love,
Loving the strong, they can forsake the strong.
Man clings because the being whom he loves
Is weak and needs him.

VICTORIA GIRL IS MISSING IN SEATTLE

Miss Kathleen Watson, Staying With Major Small, Disappears When on Errand

So far the police in Seattle have been unable to locate or establish any trace of Kathleen Watson, of Victoria, who disappeared in a most mysterious manner on Thursday afternoon. The only details available have led the Sound police to believe that it is a case of seduction.

Miss Watson, who is sixteen years old, was the daughter of Mrs. Louise Russell and was employed in the home of Major Arthur Small, who was attached to the Army Service Corps here for some time. A few weeks ago they moved from Victoria to Seattle.

According to the mother and Major Small, Kathleen left the house Thursday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock on an errand to the Post Office. The policeman on duty at the Post Office at 3.30 o'clock recalled seeing a girl of her description and hearing her ask an unidentified man the way to the public library. Later the same girl was seen leaving the library on Fourth Avenue and Madison Street at 4.30 o'clock in the company of a woman unknown to the patrolman on duty at the building.

There is no trace of the girl from that time.

Kathleen, according to Major Small, has every appearance of unsophistication. She was simply dressed in white, with a white straw hat, and her hair braided down her back. She is of medium complexion, inclined to pallor, and has blue eyes and brown hair. Her speech has an English accent, the result of education at the convent school here.

Mrs. Russell is able to assign no reason for the girl's absence. The girl had no friends or acquaintances in Seattle, was not of a romantic disposition, and, so far as is known, had few intimates outside of her fellow students at her former school.
